Arabic as One Language Mahmoud Al-Batal, 2017-12-04 For decades students learning the Arabic language have begun with Modern Standard Arabic MSA and then transitioned to learning spoken Arabic While the MSA first approach neither reflects the sociolinguistic reality of the language nor gives students the communicative skills required to fully function in Arabic the field continues to debate the widespread adoption of this approach Little research or evidence has been presented about the effectiveness of integrating dialect in the curriculum With the recent publication of textbooks that integrate dialect in the Arabic curriculum however a more systematic analysis of such integration is clearly becoming necessary In this seminal volume Mahmoud Al Batal gathers key scholars who have implemented integration to present data and research on the method s success The studies address curricular models students outcomes and attitudes of students and teachers using integration in their curricula This volume is an essential resource for all teachers of Arabic language and those working in Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language TAFL The Syntax of Arabic Joseph E. linear understanding of the development of Arabic this book instead advocates a multiple pathways approach to Arabic language history Arabic has multifarious sources its relations to other Semitic languages an old epigraphic and papyrological tradition a vibrant and linguistically original classical Arabic linguistic tradition and a widely dispersed array of contemporary spoken varieties These diverse sources present a challenge to and an opportunity for defining a holistic but not necessarily linear Arabic language history The geographical breadth and chronological depth of Arabic make it a fertile ground for a critical appraisal and application of perspectives from a range of subdisciplines including sociolinguistics typology grammaticalization and corpus linguistics Jonathan Owens draws on these approaches to investigate more than 20 individual case studies that cover more than 1500 years of documented and reconstructed history the results demonstrate that Arabic is a far more complex historical object than traditional accounts have assumed This complexity is further explored in a comparison of the historical morphology of three languages that can be compared over roughly the same period 500 AD 2022 AD Icelandic English and Arabic Icelandic and English are diametrically opposed on a parameter of linearity Icelandic is effectively alinear the morphology of the earliest Icelandic writings is the morphology of today English is linear having undergone a drastic change in morphology from its Old English stage to the Middle English period Arabic is shown to be alinear in many important respects but multilinear in others with different sorts of linguistic changes being spread across many individual historical speech communities
