Ancillary Health Care Exam November 2014

W. David Hardy

Ancillary Health Care Exam November 2014:

Self-determination in Health Care Leroy C. Edozien, 2016-03-03 It is generally accepted in legal and bioethical discourse that the patient has a right to self determination In practice though this is often not the case Paternalism is waning and it is increasingly recognised that there are values other than medical factors which determine the choices that patients make Unfortunately these developments have not resulted in huge advances for patient self determination which is largely because the consent model has fundamental flaws that constrain its effectiveness This book sets out to offer an alternative model to consent In the property model proposed here the patient s bodily integrity is protected from unauthorised invasion and their legitimate expectation to be provided with the relevant information to make an informed decision is taken to be a proprietary right It is argued that the property model potentially overcomes the limitations of the consent model including the obstacle caused by the requirement to prove causation in consent cases The author proposes that this model could in the future provide an alternative or complementary approach for the courts to consider when dealing with cases relating to self determination in health care

Improving Diagnosis in Health Care National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on Diagnostic Error in Health Care, 2016-01-29 Getting the right diagnosis is a key aspect of health care it provides an explanation of a patient s health problem and informs subsequent health care decisions The diagnostic process is a complex collaborative activity that involves clinical reasoning and information gathering to determine a patient s health problem According to Improving Diagnosis in Health Care diagnostic errors inaccurate or delayed diagnoses persist

throughout all settings of care and continue to harm an unacceptable number of patients. It is likely that most people will experience at least one diagnostic error in their lifetime, sometimes with devastating consequences. Diagnostic errors may cause harm to patients by preventing or delaying appropriate treatment, providing unnecessary or harmful treatment, or resulting in psychological or financial repercussions. The committee concluded that improving the diagnostic process is not only possible but also represents a moral, professional, and public health imperative. Improving Diagnosis in Health Care is a continuation of the landmark Institute of Medicine reports To Err Is Human (2000) and Crossing the Quality Chasm (2001), which find that diagnosis, and in particular the occurrence of diagnostic errors, has been largely unappreciated in efforts to improve the quality and safety of health care. Without a dedicated focus on improving diagnosis, diagnostic errors will likely worsen as the delivery of health care and the diagnostic process continue to increase in complexity. Just as the diagnostic process is a collaborative activity, improving diagnosis will require collaboration and a widespread commitment to change among health care professionals, health care organizations, patients, and their families, researchers, and policy makers. The recommendations of Improving Diagnosis in Health Care contribute to the growing momentum for change in this crucial area of health care quality and safety.

The Report: Papua New Guinea 2014 Oxford Business Group, 2014-09-04. Papua New Guinea is poised for change as the country's mineral riches are providing a major opportunity for economic development through the exploitation of natural resources. The government's five-year strategic plan focuses on key development enablers such as free education, improvements to health services, the strengthening of law and order, rural development projects, and infrastructure construction. Inward investment has increasingly been driven by the extractive sector, including oil and gas, whose share of the country's total investment stock rose from 71% to 87% between 2004 and 2012. Statistics from the Investment Promotion Authority reveal that the largest share of new foreign direct investment in 2013, some 24.6%, targeted the construction sector, outpacing that in financial services, manufacturing, and mining, which accounted for 19.8%, 18.1%, and 10.9% respectively. While minerals and hydrocarbons dominate exports, around 85% of the country's population is employed in the agriculture sector. The start of liquefied natural gas exports in 2014 is expected to return the current account to a surplus in 2015, forecast as high as 12.1% of GDP, before returning to 9.1% the following year. While the outlook for state revenues remains strong in the medium term, ensuring the sustainability of further spending increases will be key to preserving macroeconomic stability.
