Abstract: This study examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% bodyweight resistance training program on the muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program was designed to be performed in a home setting and consisted of three sessions per week. The results showed that the program was effective in increasing muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness. The study also found that the program was well-tolerated and that participants experienced a significant improvement in their quality of life.
