Carlo Rotella,2025-09-02 An eloquent and moving story about the value and the pleasures of intellectual exploration and why it matters beyond the classroom At a time when college students and their parents often question the return on investment from humanities courses accomplished feature writer and English professor Carlo Rotella invites us into the minds of a group of skeptical first year students who are ultimately transformed by a required literature class In What Can I Get Out of This he follows thirty three students through his class to provide an intimate look at teaching and learning from their perspectives as well as his own The students reluctance How does this get me a job transforms into insight as they wrestle with challenging books share ideas discover how to think critically and form a community In all these ways they learn how to extract meaning from the world around them an essential life skill Confronting skeptics of higher education this compassionate and inspiring book reveals the truth of what students actually experience in college

Hard-to-Teach Science Concepts Susan Koba,Carol T.

Mitchell, 2011 Authors Susan Koba and Carol Mitchell introduce teachers of grades 3-5 to their conceptual framework for successful instruction of hard-to-teach science concepts. Their methodology comprises four steps: 1. engage students about their preconceptions and address their thinking; 2. target lessons to be learned; 3. determine appropriate strategies; and 4. use Standards-based teaching that builds on student understandings. The authors not only explain how to use their framework but also provide a variety of tools and examples of its application on four hard-to-teach foundational concepts: the flow of energy and matter in ecosystems; force and motion; matter and its transformation; and Earth's shape. Both preservice and inservice elementary school teachers will find this approach appealing, and the authors' engaging writing style and user-friendly tables help educators adapt the method with ease.
