Innovation in Eastern Europe Christian von Hirschhausen, Jürgen Bitzer, 2000-01-01 The topic is important and neglected and has major implications for the types of industrial policy that make any sense in transition countries The clear message of this book is that protective science and technology policies would for the most part be a total waste of money What is needed now is internationalization and a demand driven approach exactly the opposite of the former nationally based and supply led systems existing under socialism Paul Hare Heriot Watt University Edinburgh UK Here is a book that goes beyond the abstractions and platitudes of conventional transition economics to look at what is really happening on the ground in the post socialist countries of Eastern Europe The Globalization of Industry and Innovation in Eastern Europe presents a provocative but richly documented assessment of the central dynamic issues facing the East European economies today David Dyker SPRU Science and Technology Policy Research University of Sussex UK In this important book industrial and enterprise reform over the last decade in Eastern Europe is critically reviewed in light of increasing Eastern integration into the global economy The authors argue for the further globalization of Eastern European enterprise networks as a condition for recovery and growth in the region Empirical evidence is provided from five industrial sectors car industry telecommunication shipbuilding computers software including case studies and international comparisons EMERGO ,1995 Ward's Automotive Yearbook ,1995 Includes advertising matter
