

Programme Year 3

The student is presented the same question three times separated by 10 minutes to read it through thoroughly, being aware of identifying what is asked, the appropriate formulae, the relationship of variables that are not given but used. Hence the student has time to prepare the solution to present the answer. This is usually achieved by the student at the presentation of the question. Hence the student has time to read the question, identify the variables, and then to work out the solution.

1. A rectangular sheet of metal is cut in the manner shown in Figure 1. The dimensions are given in terms of x and y .

It is given that
