Anne Parrish, Dillwyn Parrish

An Unbearably Beautiful Girl English Edition:

Medieval Women Writers Katharina M. Wilson, 1984 This is one of the first anthologies devoted to the writings of women in the Middle Ages The fifteen women whose works are represented span seven centuries eight languages and ten regions or nationalities Many are recognized taught and anthologized in their own countries but have been inaccessible to students in English Others are little read today because their literary fortunes have paralleled fluctuations in literary taste and literary patronage Katharina M Wilson s introduction to the volume places these writers in historical context and explores the question of the female imagination and who these women were who were writing at a time when very few women were literate and most literature sacred and secular was penned by men Each of the fifteen chapters has been written by a different scholar and includes a biographical and critical introduction to the writer a representative selection of her works in translation and a bibliography

Southern Humanities Review ,1971    Aimer Et Mourir Eilene Hoft-March, Judith Holland Sarnecki, 2009 Aimer et Mourir offers a wide ranging selection of essays that collectively address how from the Middle Ages to the present the notions of love and death get inextricably associated with the narratives that are women TM s lives Some of the essays tackle male writers' representations that link women and in particular women's sexuality with death resulting in the figures of the femme fatale, the woman in parturition and the desiring vampire. A number of essays reiterate that women's hypersexualized bodies have been used as a social construct and a psychological screen upon which to project a fear of death. The challenges to this partial reduction of woman's domain come from the mostly women writers represented here and they span from Marguerite de Navarre to Amélie Nothomb. These women writers rework the old formulae giving us instead death-defying memories of love, love regenerative of language as of bodies, love forcing the frontiers of death or love creatively redefined within the parameters of death. Nor are these new narratives imagined as belonging to women alone but rather as attesting to a richer, more varied and greatly sensitized human experience.
