Law and Administration in Europe Paul P. Craig, Richard Rawlings, 2003 The contributions to this volume address central issues in public law There are chapters dealing with the general theoretical foundations of public law including the relationship of theory and values and discussion of the central idea of representation The nature of the public private divide continues to be of importance as a result of changes in the nature of government and as a consequence of the passage of the Human Rights Act 1998 HRA Closely related to this is the contractualisation of government The relationship between the courts Parliament and the executive has always been a central concern for public lawyers It has been brought to the fore by the passage of the HRA leading to discussions about the extent to which the courts should show deference to executive and legislative choices when engaging in judicial review This vexed issue is especially apparent when it comes to deciding how Parliament the executive and the courts should treat non citizens or those who might threaten the security of the state It is of course impossible to discuss public law without considering European Union law There is discussion of core issues relating to the legitimacy of the EU and its constitutional foundations The role of courts in the process of integration is analysed and the desirability of judicial review over rule making is considered The relationship between public and private modes of enforcing EU law is reviewed In addition there is a discussion of the way in which different levels of government inter relate viewed through the lens of devolution in the UK
