Hilda Taba and Marion Thompson Wright concerned over the last century with issues of difference in schools and society. This volume's reconstruction of hidden history reveals the importance of these women to contemporary debate about gender pluralism and education in a democracy. Characterized by views of education that were constructivist, customized, and transformative, their lives and ideas present an alternative model to dominant conceptualizations of education—one sensitive to the demands of pluralism within civil education long before the present-day debates about multiculturalism.
