Climatological Data United States. Environmental Data Service, 1973 Climatological Data, 1978 Science in Negotiation Jessica Espey, 2022-11-28 This book explores the role of scientific evidence within United Nations UN deliberation by examining the negotiation of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs endorsed by Member States in 2015 Using the SDGs as a case study this book addresses a key gap in our understanding of the role of evidence in contemporary international policy making It is structured around three overarching questions 1 how does scientific evidence influence multilateral policy development within the UN General Assembly 2 how did evidence shape the goals and targets that constitute the SDGs and 3 how did institutional arrangements and non state actor engagements mediate the evidence to policy process in the development of the SDGs The ultimate intention is to tease out lessons on global policy making and to understand the influence of different evidence inputs and institutional factors in shaping outcomes To understand the value afforded to scientific evidence within multilateral deliberation a conceptual framework is provided drawing upon literature from policy studies and political science including recent theories of evidence informed policy making and new institutionalism It posits that the success or failure of evidence informing global political processes rests upon the representation and access of scientific stakeholders levels of community organisation the framing and presentation of evidence and time including the duration over which evidence and key conceptual ideas are presented Cutting across the discussion is the fundamental question of whose evidence counts and how expertise is defined The framework is tested with specific reference to three themes that were prominent during the SDG negotiation process public health articulated in SDG 3 urban sustainability articulated in SDG 11 and data and information systems which were a cross cutting theme of the dialogue Within each scientific communities had specific demands and through an exploration of key literature including evidence inputs and UN documentation as well as through key informant interviews the translation of these scientific ideas into policy priorities is uncovered The intended audiences of this book include academic practitioners studying evidence to policy processes multilateral negotiation and or UN policy planning The book also intends to provide useful insights for policy makers including UN diplomats officials and staff working to improve the quality of evidence communication and uptake within multilateral institutions Finally it aims to support the whole global academic and scientific community including students of public policy and political science by providing insights on how to input into influence and even shape international evidence informed policy making Climatological Data, National Summary National Climatic Center, Climatological Data National Climatic Center, 1978 Assessing and addressing health inequities and disparities: The role of health informatics Gulzar H. Shah, Anjum Khurshid, 2023-04-14 The politics of unbelonging Andreja Zevnik, Andrew Russell, 2025-05-06 This book offers a comprehensive study of racialisation of Romani communities in Europe and beyond Drawing on the idea of unbelonging it demonstrates how Romani communities are placed in a position of visceral visibility by local national and international institutions as well as public media discourses. It shows how such positionality impacts the ability of Roma to self-represent politically and build capacity for change. From the position of unbelonging, the book offers an account of Romani agency which both challenges the mainstream representations of Roma but also develops an alternative non-nation-state sense of belonging. In doing so, the book outlines an account of Romani alternative expressions in order to take control of their relationship with their own history, future, knowledge, and identity and the rest of the society.

Revisiting State Personhood and World Politics Bianca Naude, 2021-12-16

Breathing fresh air into debates surrounding foreign policy and interstate relations, Bianca Naude presents a holistic theory of states as collectives of people that cannot be reduced to their individual constituents. Moving among current research on the ontological status of the state alongside important arguments in support of the state personhood thesis, Naude begins by exploring Freud's personality theory and the ways in which this theory has evolved over time in response to newer insights from the field of experimental psychology. Recognizing that Freud's work is in many ways outdated, she considers more recent literature on narcissism as an aspect of self-esteem rather than a form of psychopathology, drawing specifically on Kohut's expansion of the concept of narcissism as a normal feature of personality development. Using the South African state as a case study, Naude demonstrates the various ways in which the state presents itself to the outside world on the one hand and how it wishes to see itself on the other. She further considers how narcissistic defenses help protect the state's ego from criticism and self-judgments.

Revisiting State Personhood and World Politics will help readers understand how the state sees itself, why or when the state experiences shame, humiliation, guilt, or pride, and how it responds to these self-conscious emotions. It will be a valuable resource to researchers and students of International Relations.
