

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

These figures suggest that the number of people who are not covered by health insurance is increasing. This is a serious problem for the United States, as it is for many other countries. The World Health Organization (WHO) estimates that over 1 billion people in the world do not have access to health insurance. This is a significant barrier to health care, as people without insurance are often unable to afford the services they need. The WHO also notes that the lack of health insurance is a major cause of poverty and inequality in many countries. In the United States, the problem is particularly acute, as the number of people without health insurance has increased steadily over the past several years. This is a serious problem that needs to be addressed, as it has the potential to undermine the health and well-being of the entire population.
