0607 CAMBRIDGE INTERNATIONAL MATHEMATICS

0607/21

Paper 2 (Extended), maximum raw mark 40

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2014 series for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level components and some Ordinary Level components.

The Importance Of Iron In Pathophysiologic Conditions Raffaella Gozzelino, Paolo Arosio, 2015-06-09 The iron element Fe is strictly required for the survival of most forms of life including bacteria plants and humans Fine tuned regulatory mechanisms for Fe absorption mobilization and recycling operate to maintain Fe homeostasis the disruption of which leads to Fe overload or Fe depletion Whereas the deleterious effect of Fe deficiency relies on reduced oxygen transport and diminished activity of Fe dependent enzymes the cytotoxicity induced by Fe overload is due to the ability of this metal to act as a pro oxidant and catalyze the formation of highly reactive hydroxyl radicals via the Fenton chemistry This results in unfettered oxidative stress generation that by inducing protein lipid and DNA oxidation leads to Fe mediated programmed cell death and organ dysfunction Major and systemic Fe overloads occurring in hemochromatosis and Fe loading anemias have been extensively studied However localized tissue Fe overload was recently associated to a variety of pathologies such as infection inflammation cancer cardiovascular and neurodegenerative disorders In keeping with the existence of cross regulatory interactions between Fe homeostasis and the pathophysiology of these diseases further investigations on the mechanisms that provide cellular and systemic adaptation to tissue Fe overload are instrumental for future therapeutic approaches Thus we encourage our colleagues to submit original research papers reviews perspectives methods and technology reports to contribute their findings to a current state of the art on a comprehensive overview of the importance of iron metabolism in pathophysiologic conditions

Models and Estimation of Genetic Effects José M Álvarez-Castro, Rong-Cai Yang, 2015-04-17 Ronald Fisher needed to develop elaborate models of genetic effects in order to set the foundations of Quantitative Genetics in his 1918 paper The correlation between relatives on the supposition of Mendelian inheritance Since then many significant implementations have been made to model genetic effects However at the verge of one century after Fisher s kick off models of genetic effects keep on being discussed and implemented Indeed the relatively recent advent of QTL analyses challenged the state of the art of this field by providing researchers the opportunity to obtain and analyze estimates of genetic effects from real data In this context the development of this field was not exempt of some polemics like the debate about the convenience of the functional and the statistical epistasis approaches This research topic is meant to provide recent developments in models and estimation of genetic effects and to enrich the discussion about how and why models of genetic effects must be further developed and applied The articles in this Research Topic shall thus extend refine and or provide a refresh look at Fisher s original models of genetic effects and their application to genetic effects estimation and to improve our understanding of evolutionary processes and breeding programs

understanding of the phenomenon of expertise by putting together different lines of research that directly or indirectly study expertise Herbert Simon's expertise studies initiated two lines of research One is interested in elucidating the cognitive processes underlying expertise and the other investigates how expertise develops These lines of research started with studies comparing experts and novices in chess and then they extended to numerous areas of expertise such as music medical diagnosis sports arts and sciences In the field of judgment and decision making researchers investigate the quality of judgments and decisions of experts in different professions e.g. clinical psychologists medical practitioners judges meteorologists stock brokers Those lines of research explicitly investigate the topic of expertise but there are other research areas that make a substantial contribution to understanding expertise Scholars in language acquisition and in face perception for example investigate cognitive processes and development of expertise in areas in which almost everyone becomes an expert Furthermore skill acquisition research informs in detail about short term cognitive changes that may be important to understand how expertise develops We are interested in original research that advances knowledge in the understanding of decision making cognitive processes and development of expertise in sports intellectual games arts scientific disciplines and professions as well as expertise in cognitive abilities such as perception memory attention language and imagery We are also interested in theoretical articles in any of these areas articles that describe computational or mathematical models of expertise and articles offering a framework that would guide expertise research Articles that offer integrative approaches of some of the areas described above are strongly encouraged The goal of this Research Topic is to produce a hallmark piece of work in the field of expertise which complements and does not overlap with the Neural implementations of expertise Research Topic in Frontiers in Human Neuroscience

Kringelbach, 2016-11-17 Neuropsychiatric disorders such as schizophrenia bipolar disorder depression anxiety disorders and other mental disorders constitute about 13% of the global burden of disease surpassing both cardiovascular disease and cancer The total cost worldwide of these diseases is estimated to exceed 100 million disability adjusted life years In order to begin to address this important problem the present Research Topic brings together a group of leading affective neuroscience researchers to present their state of the art findings using an affective neuroscience approach to investigate the spectrum of neuropsychiatric disorders from patients to those at risk They focus on different aspects of the emotional and social cognitive disturbances which are core features of neuropsychiatric disorders While progress has been slow over last couple of decades we are finally beginning to glimpse some of the underlying neural mechanisms of the emotional and social cognitive disturbances in patients and those at risk With the technological advances in affective neuroscience and neuroimaging presented in this volume we hope that progress will be much swifter in the coming years such that we can provide better care for patients and those at risk

Cellular and Phenotypic Plasticity in Cancer Petranel Theresa

Ferrao, Andreas Behren, Robin Anderson, Erik Thompson, 2015-09-17 The process of Epithelial Mesenchymal Transition EMT is known to result in a phenotype change in cells from a proliferative state to a more invasive state EMT has been reported to drive the metastatic spread of various cancers and has also been associated with drug resistance to cytotoxics and targeted therapeutics Recently phenotype switching akin to EMT has been reported in non epithelial cancers such as metastatic melanoma This process involves changes in EMT Transcription Factors EMT TFs suggesting that phenotype switching may be common to several tumour types It remains unclear as to whether the presence of both Epithelial like and Mesenchymal like cells are a pre requisite for phenotype switching within a tumour how this heterogeneity is regulated and if alteration of cell phenotype is sufficient to mediate migratory changes or whether drivers of cell migration result in an associated phenotype switch in cancer cells Similarly it has yet to be clarified if cells in an altered phenotype can be refractory to drug therapy or whether mediators of drug resistance induce a concurrent phenotypic change Little is known today about the underlying genetic epigenetic and transient changes that accompany this phenotypic switch and about the role for the tumor micro environment in influencing it Hence this is currently an area of speculation and keen interest in the Oncology field with wide ranging translational implications In this Frontiers Research Topic we discuss our current understanding of these concepts in various cancer types including breast cancer colorectal cancer and metastatic melanoma This topic covers how these processes of cellular and phenotypic plasticity are regulated and how they relate to cancer initiation progression dormancy metastases and response to cytotoxics or targeted therapies
