Analysis Of Shona Set S

Ezra Chitando, Sophia
Chirongoma, Molly Manyonganise

Analysis Of Shona Set S:

Vowel Epenthesis in Loanword Adaptation Christian Uffmann, 2012-02-14 While it is commonly assumed that languages epenthesize context free default vowels this book shows that in loanword adaptation several strategies are found which interact intricately Large loanword corpora in Shona Sranan Samoan and Kinyarwanda are analyzed statistically and the patterns are modeled in a version of Optimality Theory which introduces constraints on autosegmental representations The focus of this book is on English loans in Shona providing an in depth empirical and formal analysis of epenthesis in this language The analysis of additional languages allows for solid typological generalizations In addition a diachronic study of epenthesis in Sranan provides insight into how insertion patterns develop historically In all languages analyzed default epenthesis exists alongside vowel harmony and spreading from adjacent consonants While different languages prefer different strategies these strategies are subject to the same set of constraints however In spreading feature markedness plays an important role alongside sonority We suggest universal markedness scales which combine with constraints on autosegmental configurations to model the patterns found in individual languages and at the same time to constrain the range of possible crosslinguistic variation Languages and Education in Africa Birgit Brock-Utne, Ingse

The Five-Factor Model of Personality Across Cultures Robert R. McCrae, Juri Allik, 2012-12-06 ROBERT R MCCRAE it is simply personality research conducted in different countries The implicit assumption behind this practice is that personality processes are universal and where they are studied is thus of no consequence An insensitivity to cultural context once imputed mostly to Americans now appears to characterize the field worldwide Fortunately recent years have also seen a rise of interest in studies of personality and culture Church 2001 Church Lee McCauley McCrae 2000 What do these new studies show Are personality processes indeed universal or are there significant variations across cultures that necessitate a more nuanced approach to research There is as yet no definitive answer to that question In some respects human personality does seem to transcend the boundaries of language and culture in other respects it is profoundly influenced by social and historical forces Sorting these issues out must be a priority for our field if we are to understand the current personality literature

Beckman,2013-04-11 First published in 1999 This study developed from a dissertation in 1993 when the author undertook what she thought would be a simple Optimality Theory analysis of Shona vowel harmony Having initially treated Shona height harmony as a case of featural alignment akin to Kirchner s 1993 analysis of Turkish she realized that alignment constraints alone could not account for one central aspect of the Shona case the priority of initial syllable features in determining the outcome of harmony This volume of research outlines the authors discoveries

Mothoagae ,2024-07-26 In this book the author aims to explore the impact of 19th century translations of the Bible into indigenous languages with a specific focus on the Setswana translation The translations have had a profound effect on the religio cultural practices of the indigenous people leading to erosion and alteration of their traditions and identities I argue that it is crucial to consider the translator s intentions and the associated literature such as journals and letters to understand the translation process comprehensively The Setswana Bible was the first to be translated in Africa and tracing the intentions of Robert Moffat the first translator is imperative to understanding the impact of the translation on the receptor culture The methodology adopted is interdisciplinary drawing from linguistics African languages history English literature cultural studies black studies and theology I analyse the impact of the 1840 Gospel of Luke in the context of Setswana culture in South Africa and my findings demonstrate that translations cannot be distinct from the translator To gain a deep understanding of the implications of such texts I adopt a methodology that analyses significant historical literature and primary sources including the records and works of The British and Foreign Bible Society The History of the London Missionary Society and the journals letters and writings of missionaries such as Robert Moffat and John Campbell
