The Digital Reading Condition Maria Engberg, Iben Have, Birgitte Stougaard Pedersen, 2022-12-30 This volume offers a critical overview of digital reading practices and scholarly efforts to analyze and understand reading in the mediated landscape Building on research about digital reading born digital literature and digital audiobooks The Digital Reading Condition explores reading as part of a broader cultural shift encompassing many forms of media and genres Bringing together research from media and literary studies digital humanities scholarship on reading and learning as well as sensory studies and research on multimodal and multisensory media reception the authors address and challenge print biased conceptions of reading that are still prevalent in research whether the reading medium is print or digital They argue that the act of reading itself is changing and rather than rejecting digital media as unsuitable for sustained or focused reading practices they argue that the complex media landscape challenges us to rethink how to define reading as a mediated practice Presenting a truly interdisciplinary perspective on digital reading practices this volume will appeal to scholars and graduate students in communication media studies new media and technology literature digital humanities literacy studies composition and rhetoric

Digital Reading of Net Generation in China Han Zhang, Jiajie Lu, 2023-08-04. With the methodology of eye tracking experiments in depth interviews and large scale questionnaires across cities, this book provides a panoramic vision of digital reading and social interaction among the new generations in China. Growing up under the background of social transformation, cultural integration and technological progress, digital reading of the Chinese net generation presents complex characteristics. People born in the 1980s and 90s are better educated, have democratic consciousness and have strong motivations for self-expression. Meanwhile, reading behaviours affect their content production, virtual identities and socialization in the real world. The immense need for digital content fuels the digital reading industries. Internet literature, social media articles, reading apps and e-reader devices have also benefited from media content and interface innovation in the market. This book provides a solid scientific foundation for reading promotion and guiding strategies in the context of digital media and offers empirical evidence for policy formulation of reading promotion and spiritual civilization in the digital age. The authors expand the perspective of communication studies on digital reading and analyze how the youth reads on digital devices and creates content for interest or profit. The book will be a great read for students and scholars of mass communication, media studies and digital publishing.

Assessing Students' Digital Reading Performance Jie HU, 2022-12-30. This book provides a systematic study of the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) based on big data analysis, aiming to examine the contextual factors relevant to students' digital reading performance. The author first introduces the research landscape of educational data mining (EDM) and reviews the PISA framework since its launch and how it has become an important metric to assess the knowledge and skills of students from across the globe. With a focus on methodology and its applications, the book explores extant scholarship on the dynamic model of educational effectiveness, multi-level factors of digital reading performance and the application of EDM approaches. The core chapter on the methodology examines machine learning algorithms, hierarchical linear modeling, mediation analysis and data extraction and processing for the PISA dataset. The findings give insights into the influencing factors of students' digital reading performance, allowing for further investigations on improving students' digital reading literacy and more attention to the advancement of education effectiveness. The book will appeal to scholars, professionals and policymakers interested in reading education, educational data mining, educational technology and PISA, as well as students learning how to utilize machine learning algorithms in examining the mass global database.

Digital

Literacy for Technical Communication Rachel Spilka, 2009-12-04 Digital Literacy for Technical Communication helps technical communicators make better sense of technology's impact on their work so they can identify new ways to adapt, adjust and evolve, fulfilling their own professional potential. This collection is comprised of three sections, each designed to explore answers to these questions: How has technical communication work changed in response to the current digital writing environment? What is important foundational knowledge in our field that all technical communicators need to learn? How can we revise past theories or develop new ones to better understand how technology has transformed our work? Bringing together highly regarded specialists in digital literacy, this anthology will serve as an indispensable resource for scholars, students and practitioners. It illuminates technology's impact on their work and prepares them to respond to the constant changes and challenges in the new digital universe.

Reading at a Crossroads? Rand J. Spiro, Michael DeSchryver, Michelle Schira Hagerman, Paul M. Morsink, Penny Thompson, 2015-03-05 The Internet is transforming the experience of reading and learning through reading. Is this transformation effecting a radical change in reading processes as readers synthesize understandings from fragments across multiple texts? Or conversely is the Internet merely a new place to use the same reading skills and processes developed through experience with traditional print-based media? Are the changes in reading processes a matter of degree or are they fundamentally new? And if so, how must reading theory, research and instruction adjust? This volume brings together distinguished experts from the fields of reading research, teacher education, educational psychology, cognitive science, rhetoric and composition, digital humanities and educational technology to address these questions. Every question is not answered in every chapter. How could they be? But every contributor has many thoughtful things to say about a subset of these important questions. Together they add up to a comprehensive response to the issues the field faces as it approaches what may well be or not a crossroads. A website devoted to extending discussion around the book in creative and disjunctive ways, readingatacrossroads.net, moves it beyond the printed page.

Creating Equitable Literacy Learning Environments Helen Adam, 2025-11-24 This groundbreaking book introduces the Model for Equitable Literacy Learning Environments (MELLE), a comprehensive framework that integrates evidence-based instruction with culturally responsive pedagogy to create truly equitable learning environments for all children. Despite decades of reading instruction reform, persistent achievement disparities remain between students from marginalised communities and their more privileged peers. Drawing on extensive international research across Australia, the United Kingdom and the United States, the author examines how three key dimensions—quality instruction, opportunity to read, and authentic representation in reading materials—must work together within supportive cultural and community contexts. Interwoven with real classroom examples, the text showcases how this framework can be applied to address persistent achievement gaps and promote inclusive education. Moving beyond polarised literacy debates, this book is a must-read for educators seeking practical solutions to create equitable learning environments that empower learners from a range of backgrounds.
