Advanced Reporting Miles Maguire, 2014-07-25 News gathering is a large complicated and often messy task that has traditionally been viewed by journalists as irretrievably idiosyncratic best learned through trial and error Advanced Reporting takes the opposite approach focusing on reporting as a process of triangulation based on three essential activities analyzing documents making observations and conducting interviews In this readable book veteran journalism professor

Miles Maguire shows how the best reporters use these three tools in a way that allows them to cross check and authenticate facts to reduce or eliminate unsupportable allegations and to take readers and viewers to a deeper level of insight and understanding This book will help to prepare students for a profession marked by increasing complexity and competition To succeed in this environment journalists must learn to make the most of digital media to intensify the impact of their work At the same time reporters must contend with a host of sophisticated public relations techniques while engaging with news audiences that no longer just consume journalism but also collaborate in its creation Discussion questions and exercises help students put theory into practice Advanced Management-office Executive ,1963 Man Out Andrew L.

Yarrow,2018-09-11 The story of men who are hurting and hurting America by their absence Man Out describes the millions of men on the sidelines of life in the United States Many of them have been pushed out of the mainstream because of an economy and society where the odds are stacked against them others have chosen to be on the outskirts of twenty first century America These men are disconnected from work personal relationships family and children and civic and community life They may be angry at government employers women and the system in general and millions of them have done time in prison and have cast aside many social norms Sadly too many of these men are unsure what it means to be a man in contemporary society Wives or partners reject them children are estranged from them and family friends and neighbors are embarrassed by them Many have disappeared into a netherworld of drugs alcohol poor health loneliness misogyny economic insecurity online gaming pornography other off the grid corners of the internet and a fantasy world of starting their own business or even writing the Great American novel Most of the men described in this book are poorly educated with low incomes and often with very few prospects for rewarding employment They are also disproportionately found among millennials those over 50 and African American men Increasingly however these lost men are discovered even in tony suburbs and throughout the nation It is a myth that men on the outer corners of society are only lower middle class white men dislocated by technology and globalization Unlike those who primarily blame an unjust economy government policies or a culture sanctioning laziness Man Out explores the complex interplay between economics and culture It rejects the politically charged dichotomy of seeing such men as either victims or culprits These men are hurting and in turn they are hurting families and hurting America It is essential to address their problems Man Out draws on a wide range of data and existing research as well as interviews with several hundred men women and a wide variety of economists and other social scientists social service providers and physicians and with employers through a national online survey and in depth fieldwork in several communities Founding Fictions Amy Boesky,1996 A cultural history of utopian writing in early modern England Founding Fictions traces the development of the genre from the publication of Thomas More s Utopia 1516 through Aphra Behn s Oroonoko 1688 Amy Boesky sees utopian literature rising alongside new social institutions that helped shape the modern English nation While utopian fiction explicitly advocates a reorganization of human activity which appears liberal or progressive utopias represent reform in self critical or qualitative ways Early modern utopias Boesky demonstrates are less blueprints for reform than they are challenges to the very possibility of improvement After an initial discussion of More's Utopia Boesky devotes subsequent chapters to Francis Bacon's New Atlantis the Civil War Utopias of Gabriel Plattes Samuel Gott and Gerrard Winstanley Margaret Cavendish's Blazing world and Henry Neville's Isle of Pines Relating the English public school to More's Utopia and early modern laboratories to Bacon's New Atlantis Boesky shows how utopists explored the formation of cultural identity through new institutional models Utopias of the 1640s and 1650s are read against new emphasis on work as the panacea for social ills Cavendish's Blazing world is seen as reproducing and reassessing restoration centers of authority in the court and theater and finally Neville's Isle of Pines and Behn's Oroonoko are read as interrogating the authorities of the English colony Despite widely divergent backgrounds says Boesky these utopists shared a sense that national identity was shaped less by individuals than by institutions which they praise for producing trained and trainable citizens instilled with the values of the modern state obedience discipline and order While the utopia tells its story partly to justify the goals of colonialism and to enforce differences in class gender and race it also tells a concurrent and less stable story that criticizes these ventures and exposes their limitations
