Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons,1955     The New Fire Ben Buchanan,Andrew Imbrie,2022-03-08 AI is revolutionizing the world Here s how democracies can come out on top Artificial intelligence is revolutionizing the modern world It is ubiquitous in our homes and offices in the present and most certainly in the future Today we encounter AI as our distant ancestors once encountered fire If we manage AI well it will become a force for good lighting the way to many transformative inventions If we deploy it thoughtlessly it will advance beyond our control If we wield it for destruction it will fan the flames of a new kind of war one that holds democracy in the balance As AI policy experts Ben Buchanan and Andrew Imbrie show in The New Fire few choices are more urgent or more fascinating than how we harness this technology and for what purpose The new fire has three sparks data algorithms and computing power These components fuel viral disinformation campaigns new hacking tools and military weapons that once seemed like science fiction To autocrats AI offers the prospect of centralized control at home and asymmetric advantages in combat It is easy to assume that democracies bound by ethical constraints and disjointed in their approach will be unable to keep up But such a dystopia is hardly preordained Combining an incisive understanding of technology with shrewd geopolitical analysis Buchanan and Imbrie show how AI can work for democracy With the right approach technology need not favor tyranny

Dynamics of decision making: from evidence to preference and belief Erica Yu, David A. Lagnado, 2014-10-24 At the core of the many debates throughout cognitive science concerning how decisions are made are the processes governing the time course of preference formation and decision From perceptual choices such as whether the signal on a radar screen indicates an enemy missile or a spot on a CT scan indicates a tumor to cognitive value based decisions such as selecting an agreeable flatmate or deciding the guilt of a defendant significant and everyday decisions are dynamic over time Phenomena such as decoy effects preference reversals and order effects are still puzzling researchers For example in a legal context jurors receive discrete pieces of evidence in sequence and must integrate these pieces together to reach a singular verdict From a standard Bayesian viewpoint the order in which people receive the evidence should not influence their final decision and yet order effects seem a robust empirical phenomena in many decision contexts Current research on how decisions unfold especially in a dynamic environment is advancing our theoretical understanding of decision making This Research Topic aims to review and further explore the time course of a decision from how prior beliefs are formed to how those beliefs are used and updated over time towards the formation of preferences and choices and post decision processes and effects Research literatures encompassing varied approaches to the time scale of decisions will be brought into scope a Speeded decisions and post decision processes that require the accumulation of noisy and possibly non stationary perceptual evidence e g randomly moving dots stimuli within a few seconds with or without temporal uncertainty b Temporally extended value based decisions that integrate feedback values e g gambling machines and internally generated decision criteria e g when one switches attention selectively between the various aspects of several choice alternatives c Temporally extended belief based decisions that build on the integration of evidence which interacts with the decision maker's belief system towards the updating of the beliefs and the formation of judgments and preferences as in the legal context Research that emphasizes theoretical concerns including optimality analysis and mechanisms underlying the decision process both neural and cognitive is presented as well as research that combines experimental and computational levels of analysis clinical trial information from doctors and researchers and the effectiveness of stockpiling of Tamiflu during an influenza pandemic The full results of clinical trials are being routinely and legally withheld from doctors and researchers by the manufacturers of medicines The ability of doctors researchers and patients to make informed decisions about treatments is being undermined Regulators and the industry have recently made proposals to open up access but these do not cover the issue of access to the results of trials in the past which bear on the efficacy and safety of medicines in use today Research suggests that the probability of completed trials being published is roughly 50% Trials which give a favorable verdict are about twice as likely to be published as trials giving unfavorable
