Table of contents

1. What's Changed for Presenters and Hosts
2. Adobe Connect 8 Quick Reference for Participants

Adobe Connect 8 has a simpler and more intuitive user interface that makes it even easier to join, present, and participate in meetings. This guide is intended to help you quickly make the transition to using Adobe Connect 8's new interface and features.

It's divided into two sections:

- What's Changed for Presenters and Hosts
- What's Changed for Participants

The presenters and hosts section is a tour of the major changes in Adobe Connect 8 and goes into some detail. The participants section is designed as a quick visual overview of key interface changes and new features. If you're a host or presenter, you can send this sheet out to your meeting participants to help them quickly find their way.

The screenshots below summarize several of the new features added in Adobe Connect 8:

Use new App Bar to join, control audio,
video, chat, and
secondary status

Share your desktop, presentations, and
other documents via drag-and-drop to the stage area

Use the profile grid to join one-to-one sessions for your participants. You can also share the video from your screen and share it
with other users.

Use the Attention
and Presence lists
to view user status and activity. In addition, these lists show your options, such as controlling and monitoring individual in-game events.

The Chat panel now allows multiple individual sessions
concurrently, and allows the presenter to send individual text messaging.

Adobe Connect 8 is now by default. (If you're logged in as a presenter or participant, some of these options aren't for you.)
