The figure consists of a 10x6 grid of small grayscale images. Each image is a 10x10 pixel grid. The images show various patterns of black and white pixels, representing different combinations of the six input features for the XOR problem. The patterns are arranged in a way that suggests a systematic variation across the rows and columns, likely corresponding to the 64 possible combinations of the six input features (though only 60 are shown, possibly with some missing or repeated).
