in information resources and capacity hamper accumulation and use of knowledge to trigger appropriate action but diverging national interests remain the key impediment to cooperation and effectiveness of global efforts even when knowledge on the risks and their consequences are well understood The paper argues that managing global risks requires a cohesive international community that enables its stakeholders to work collectively around common goals by facilitating sharing of knowledge devoting resources to capacity building and protecting the vulnerable When some countries fail to cooperate the international community can still forge cooperation including by realigning incentives and demonstrating benefit from incremental steps toward full cooperation
