

to find the stylistic patterns within the story. The study also presents conclusions and recommendations for further studies.

The present paper attempts to answer the following research questions:

- 1- Are Genette's theory and Short and Leech methodology applicable in analysing fiction?
- 2- Is there any discrepancy between the narrative and the stylistic model?
- 3- To what extent narrative theory is useful in this study?

Definitions of Important Terms

Before trying to analyze the selected work stylistically, it is crucial to understand the meaning of some terms related to the fictional world such as:

- 1- Narration: (Abrams, 2005:181) defines narrative as a story, whether told in prose or verse. This story requires components such as events, characters, and what the characters say or do and any story is told by a narrator.
- 2- Point of view: this term signifies the way a story gets told. The mode (or modes) used by an author to present the major components of any story like characters, dialogues, actions, setting and events which form the narrative in a work of fiction (ibid:240).

Writers use different methods to present their stories. These are listed as follows (ibid: 241):

- I.Third Person Narrator: the narrator is someone outside the story, and refers to the characters in the story by 3rd person pronouns (he, she, they).
- II.Second Person Narrator: this mode of story gets told by using 2nd person pronouns (you) which is a less common mode in fiction than the other modes. (You) refers to the reader/readers of the story (Ibid).
- III.First Person Narrator: in this mode of narration, the narrator of the story uses the 1st person pronoun (I). In this case, the narrator expresses his feeling, experiences, and infers or findings while talking to other characters in the story (ibid: 242).

According to Fowler (1977:72) explains that the term "point of view" has two senses. The first sense is aesthetic\ perceptual. This means something similar to "viewing position". In other words, "the author must orient himself and his readers to the contents of his presented world"(ibid:73).

The second sense has importance in sentence structure. Language is a powerful medium to work in. This is to say, that writers/speakers when trying to say something they are unconsciously conveying an attitude to that something (ibid:76).

- 3- Narratology: it deals with all above-mentioned types of narrators, "the identification of the structural elements and their diverse modes of combination, recurrent narrative devices, and the analysis of the kinds of discourse by which a narrative gets told" (ibid: 181).
