Unlike many generic training guides, this manual doesn't just give you lists of poses and scripts. Instead, it shows you how to think, teach, and embody yoga as a living practice. You'll learn how to structure classes that flow intelligently, adapt advanced techniques for different student levels, and incorporate meditation and energetic alignment into every session. This is where sequencing evolves into artistry, and teaching becomes a transmission, not just instruction. The Tantric Kundalini material is presented in a grounded and accessible way, focusing on practices that clear the chakras, strengthen the nervous system, and invite deeper states of meditation without bypassing safety. The Hatha Yoga Pradipika is explored not as a dusty relic but as a living manual of yogic wisdom, reinterpreted through modern anatomy and Safe Yoga School's safety-first lens. Together, these traditions create a framework where posture, breath, and energy merge into an authentic advanced practice. A defining feature of this training is the Total Engagement Concept (TEC), developed through years of teaching and refinement. This unique method teaches you how to bring your full presence into every posture, mentally, physically, energetically, and spiritually. By learning to activate postures from the inside out, you'll transform not only your practice but the way you guide others. Whether your goal is to expand your professional teaching career, go deeper into your own practice, or integrate more meditation and breathwork into your classes, this manual will meet you where you are and help you grow. And to ensure that you are never left alone with the material, every purchase of this manual comes with a complimentary one-hour private consultation with author Troy Cox.
