Measuring History S. G. Grant, 2009-03-01. Measuring History complements the cases presented in Wise Social Studies Practices. Yeager and Davis (2005) highlight the rich and ambitious teaching that can occur in the broad context of state-level testing. In this book, the chapter authors and I bring the particular state history tests more to the fore and examine how teachers are responding to them. At the heart of Measuring History are cases of classroom teachers in seven states: Florida, Kentucky, Michigan, New York, Texas, Mississippi, and Virginia, where new social studies standards and new and generally high-stakes state-level history tests are prominent. In these chapters, the authors describe and analyze the state's testing efforts and how those efforts are being interpreted in the context of classroom practice. The results both support and challenge prevailing views on the efficacy of testing as a vehicle for educational reform. Catherine Horn (University of Houston) and I lay the groundwork for the case studies through a set of introductory chapters that examine the current environment, the research literature, and the technical qualities of history tests.

Casebook of Clinical Neuropsychology Joel E. Morgan, Ida Sue Baron, Joseph H. Ricker, 2010-10-29. Casebook of Clinical Neuropsychology features actual clinical neuropsychological cases drawn from leading experts' files. Each chapter represents a different case completed by a different expert. Cases cover the lifespan from child to adult to geriatric, and the types of cases will represent a broad spectrum of prototypical cases of well-known and well-documented disorders as well as some rarer disorders. Chapter authors were specifically chosen for their expertise with particular disorders. When a practitioner is going to see a child or an adult with X problem, they can turn to the case and find up-to-date critical information to help them understand the issues related to the diagnosis: a brief synopsis of the literature, the patient's symptom presentation, the evaluation including neuropsychological test results and other results from consultants along with treatments and recommendations. Clinical cases represent a long-established tradition as a teaching vehicle in the clinical sciences, most prominently in medicine and psychology. Case studies provide the student with actual clinical material data in the form of observations of the patient examination test data relevant history and related test results all of which must be integrated into a diagnostic conclusion and ultimately provide the patient with appropriate recommendations Critical to this educational heuristic process is the opportunity for the reader to view the thought processes of the clinician that resulted in the conclusions and recommendations offered With the science of the disorder as the foundation of this process readers learn how the integration of multiple sources of data furthers critical thinking skills
