Gregory's New York Brigade: Valgene L. Dunham, 2015-12-11 At the beginning of October 1864 the only equipment most Union soldiers near Petersburg Virginia needed was a shovel including Gen Edgar Gregory's new reserve brigade which was digging trenches around the besieged city Most of the brigade's volunteer members from New York had never fired a musket upon marching into the swamps and woods southwest of Petersburg But the dusty blue collar workers became a force to be reckoned with as they dug and marched westward to force Gen Robert E Lee to extend forces away from Petersburg Following the brigade's largest battle Five Forks the Union marched rapidly westward to keep Lee from joining Gen Joseph Johnston The brigade was selected to assist in the surrender at Appomattox Those acts alone would have solidified the brigade's place in history but its men also served as caretakers of the peace during their march back to Washington D C especially after the assassination of President Lincoln Gregory's New York Brigade deserves to be honored as much as those who fought in the major battles of the war Find out why in this detailed account of its well deserved place in history

The Last Generation Peter S. Carmichael, 2015-12-01 Challenging the popular conception of Southern youth on the eve of the Civil War as intellectually lazy violent and dissipated Peter S Carmichael looks closely at the lives of more than one hundred young white men from Virginia's last generation to grow up with the institution of slavery He finds them deeply engaged in the political economic and cultural forces of their time Age he concludes created special concerns for young men who spent their formative years in the 1850s Before the Civil War these young men thought long and hard about Virginia's place as a progressive slave society They vigorously lobbied for disunion despite opposition from their elders then served as officers in the Army of Northern Virginia as frontline negotiators with the nonslaveholding rank and file After the war however they quickly shed their Confederate radicalism to pursue the political goals of home rule and New South economic
