

THE SKELETON
The skeleton is the framework of the body, supporting the soft organs and tissues. It is composed of bones and cartilage. The bones are made of a hard, white, mineralized substance called bone tissue. The cartilage is a soft, white, jelly-like substance. The skeleton is divided into the axial skeleton (skull, spine, and rib cage) and the appendicular skeleton (arms and legs). The axial skeleton is made of 28 bones, and the appendicular skeleton is made of 126 bones. The total number of bones in the human body is 206.

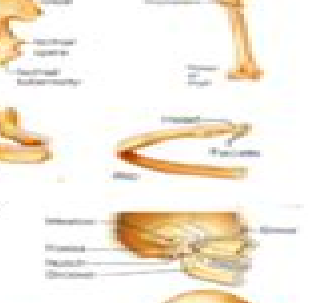

THE MUSCLES
The muscles are the soft tissue that contracts to move the bones. They are made of muscle fibers. The muscles are divided into the skeletal muscles (voluntary) and the smooth muscles (involuntary). The skeletal muscles are attached to the bones by tendons. The smooth muscles are found in the walls of the internal organs. The total number of muscles in the human body is 650.

THE JOINTS
The joints are the points where two or more bones meet. They allow the bones to move relative to each other. There are three main types of joints: the ball-and-socket joint, the hinge joint, and the pivot joint. The ball-and-socket joint allows for the greatest range of motion. The hinge joint allows for flexion and extension. The pivot joint allows for rotation.

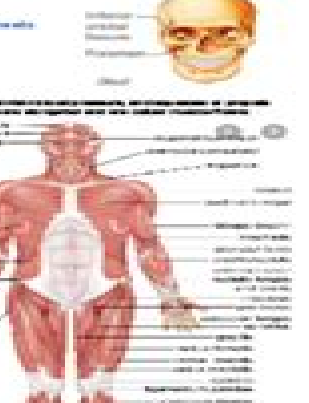

THE NERVOUS SYSTEM
The nervous system is the control system of the body. It is made of the brain, spinal cord, and nerves. The brain is the center of the nervous system. The spinal cord is a long, thin, tube-like structure that runs down the back. The nerves are made of nerve fibers that carry messages between the brain and the rest of the body. The nervous system is divided into the central nervous system (brain and spinal cord) and the peripheral nervous system (nerves).

THE CIRCULATORY SYSTEM
The circulatory system is the system that transports blood throughout the body. It is made of the heart, blood vessels, and blood. The heart is the pump that moves the blood. The blood vessels are the tubes that carry the blood. The blood is made of red blood cells, white blood cells, and platelets. The circulatory system is divided into the systemic circulation (carries blood to and from the rest of the body) and the pulmonary circulation (carries blood to and from the lungs).

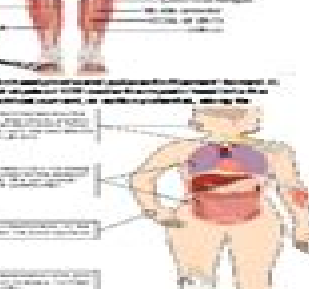

THE ENDOCRINE SYSTEM
The endocrine system is the system that produces and releases hormones. It is made of the hypothalamus, pituitary gland, and various other glands. The hormones are chemical messengers that travel through the bloodstream to target organs. The endocrine system is divided into the anterior pituitary (releases growth hormone, prolactin, and other hormones) and the posterior pituitary (releases oxytocin and vasopressin).

THE IMMUNE SYSTEM
The immune system is the system that defends the body against disease. It is made of the white blood cells, antibodies, and various other immune cells. The immune system is divided into the innate immune system (first line of defense) and the adaptive immune system (second line of defense).

THE EXCRETORY SYSTEM
The excretory system is the system that removes waste from the body. It is made of the kidneys, ureters, and bladder. The kidneys are the organs that filter the blood and remove waste. The ureters are the tubes that carry the urine from the kidneys to the bladder. The bladder is the organ that stores the urine before it is excreted from the body.

THE INTEGUMENTARY SYSTEM
The integumentary system is the system that covers the body. It is made of the skin, hair, and nails. The skin is the largest organ of the body. It protects the body from the environment and helps regulate body temperature. The hair and nails are made of keratin, a protein that gives them their strength.
