Endocrine and Metabolic Effects on Maternal-fetal and Neonatal Outcomes Huixia Yang, Moshe Hod, Jie Yan, Cuilin Zhang, 2024-07-10 Pregnancy is a complex state with many endocrine and metabolic challenges to a woman's physiology. Inappropriate maternal endocrine and metabolic changes such as obesity, hyperglycemia, hyperlipidemia, and hypothyroidism may lead to short-term and long-term complications in the mother and offspring. This not only affects population health but also imposes a huge social and economic burden accompanied by significant direct and indirect public health costs. Therefore, the study of endocrine and metabolic effects on maternal, fetal, and neonatal outcomes is an especially important research field. These studies will lead to new approaches to predicting metabolic diseases in pregnancy and provide new solutions and effective interventions to prevent or delay those related diseases. Furthermore, they will reveal unknown pathophysiological mechanisms of inappropriate maternal endocrine and metabolic changes during pregnancy and their implications on short-term and long-term complications in the mother and offspring. This could lead to updated diagnosis and treatment strategies for women with endocrine and metabolic diseases during pregnancy. The proposed Research Topic intends to evaluate the pathophysiological mechanisms of inappropriate maternal endocrine and metabolic changes during pregnancy and their implications on short-term and long-term complications in the mother and offspring. The evolving trends in prediction, diagnosis, prevention, and treatment strategies of endocrine and metabolic diseases during pregnancy are also encouraged. In addition, the goal of this research topic is to uncover the characteristics of maternal endocrine and metabolic changes in special populations like twins, women with obesity, gestational diabetes mellitus, pregnancy hypothyroidism, etc. Brain Health and Clinical Neuroscience Editor's Pick 2021 Leonhard Schilbach, 2021-08-10 Phase II Clinical Development of New Drugs Naitee Ting, Ding-Geng Chen, Shuyen Ho, Joseph C. Norm Contestation, Sovereignty and (Ir)responsibility at the International Criminal Court

Emanuela Piccolo Koskimies, 2021-10-26 Grappling specifically with the norm of sovereignty as responsibility the book seeks to advance a critical constructivist understanding of norm development in international society as opposed to the conventional or liberal constructivist mis understanding that still dominates the debate Against this backdrop the book delves into the institutionalization of sovereignty as responsibility within the lived practice of the International Criminal Court ICC More to the point the proposed exploration intends to revive questions about the power laden nature of the normative fabric of international society its dis symmetries and its outright hierarchies in order to devise an original framework to operationalize research on how institutional practice impinges on norm development To this end the book resorts to an original creole vocabulary which combines the contributions of post positivist constructivist scholars with the legacy of key post modernist thinkers such as Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida as well as critical approaches to International Criminal Law and Post Colonial Studies The book will appeal to scholars of international relations and international law in addition to critical scholars more broadly as well as to practitioners in the fields of human rights and international justice interested in normative theory and the implementation and contestation of international social norms
