Journal Impact Factor®

The Journal Impact Factor (JIF) is a journal-level metric calculated from data indexed in the Web of Science Core Collection. It should be used in conjunction with other metrics. The Journal Impact Factor can complement expert opinion and informed peer review. In the case of academic evaluation for tenure, it is inappropriate to use the JIF as the sole metric.

A History of Scientific Journals Aileen Fyfe, Noah Moxham, Julie McDougall-Waters, Camilla Mørk Røstvik, 2022-10-03 Modern scientific research has changed so much since Isaac Newton's day it is more professional collaborative and international with more complicated equipment and a more diverse community of researchers Yet the use of scientific journals to report share and store results is a thread that runs through the history of science from Newton's day to ours Scientific journals are now central to academic research and careers Their editorial and peer review processes act as a check on new claims and findings and researchers build their careers on the list of journal articles they have published The journal that reported Newton's optical experiments still exists First published in 1665 and now fully digital the Philosophical Transactions has carried papers by Charles Darwin Dorothy Hodgkin and Stephen Hawking It is now one of eleven journals published by the Royal Society of London Unrivalled insights from the Royal Society's comprehensive archives have enabled the authors to investigate more than 350 years of scientific journal publishing The editorial management business practices and financial difficulties of the Philosophical Transactions and its sibling Proceedings reveal the meaning and purpose of journals in a changing scientific community At a time when we are surrounded by calls to reform the academic publishing system it has never been more urgent that we understand its history Scientific Scholarly Communication Pali U. K. De Silva, Candace K. Vance, 2017-01-18 This book critically examines the historical developments and current trends in the scientific scholarly communication system issues and challenges in scientific scholarly publishing and scientific data sharing implications and debates associated with the influence of intellectual property rights on scientific information sharing and new trends related to peer reviewing and measuring the impact of scientific publications Based on thorough examination of published literature the book illustrates the involvement of many stakeholders scientists science educators university administrators government entities research funders and other interested parties in this complex and dynamic system The discussion highlights the roles these stakeholders have to play individually and collaboratively to help transform the future of the scientific scholarly communication system
