BACKGROUND INFORMATION

There are two types of nucleic acids in all living organisms – DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) and RNA (ribonucleic acid). Together these form the basis of all life on earth.

They consist of monomers (building blocks) called nucleotides. In 1952 the British chemist, Rosalind Franklin and her assistant Maurice Wilkins researched the structure of DNA using X-ray diffraction images. Watson and Crick did independent research on DNA. Upon seeing Franklin's images, they proposed a 3-D double helix model of DNA in 1953. In 1962 Watson and Crick received the Nobel Prize for the discovery of the structure of DNA, and Wilkins received an award for his X-ray photography. Franklin had died of cancer.

Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee, 2006-11-05 The Committee's report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level the provision of careers advice to students problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers the quality of teaching methods and the role of continuing professional development The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond

It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14-19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate. This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics. Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers, the quality of careers advice in schools and the importance of practical science in schools.
