Emotions of Animals and Humans Shigeru Watanabe, Stan Kuczaj, 2012-08-31 This book takes a multidisciplinary approach to emotion with contributions from biologists psychologists neuroscientists robot engineers and artists A wide range of emotional phenomena is discussed including the notion that humans sophisticated sensibility as evidenced by our aesthetic appreciation of the arts is based at least in part on a basic emotional sensibility that is found in young children and perhaps even some non human animal species As a result this book comprises a unique comparative perspective on the study of emotion A number of chapters consider emotions in a variety of animal groups including fish birds and mammals Other chapters expand the scope of the book to humans and robots Specific topics covered in these chapters run the gamut from lower level emotional activity such as emotional expression to higher level emotional activity such as altruism love and aesthetics Taken as a whole the book presents manifold perspectives on emotion and provides a solid foundation for future multidisciplinary research on the nature of emotions      Narrative Persuasion. A Cognitive Perspective on Language Evolution Francesco Ferretti, 2022-08-23 This book explores the evolutionary and cognitive foundations of human communication focusing on narrative as its distinctive dimension Within a framework of continuity with both the communication of our hominin predecessors and that of non human animals the book is about a twofold proposal It includes the idea that human and animal communication has an intrinsically persuasive nature along with the hypothesis that humans developed narrative forms of communication in order to enhance their persuasive abilities In this view narrative persuasion becomes the feature that distinguishes human communication from animal communication The study of the transition from animal communication to language addresses both the selective pressures that led communication for persuasive purposes to take a narrative form and the cognitive architectures and expressive systems that enabled our ancestors to cope with the selective pressures of persuasive narrative based communication Language evolution is interdisciplinary even from the specific perspective of evolutionary pragmatics chosen here Therefore this book is intended for researchers working in fields such as cognitive sciences philosophy evolutionary biology cognitive psychology and primatology It also represents a valuable resource for advanced students in cognitive sciences linguistics and philosophy Transposable Elements, Transcriptomics, and Diseases Luis M. Vaschetto, 2025-11-09 Transposable elements (TEs) are mobile DNA sequences once referred to as selfish DNA While they have contributed significantly to genome evolution their movement can often disrupt genes and lead to disease To counteract this organisms have developed post transcriptional transcriptional and epigenetic mechanisms to control TE activity This book explores the complex interplay between mobile genetic elements and human health providing a comprehensive overview of TE biology their modes of action and the strategies employed to suppress their movement and offering valuable insights into potential therapeutic interventions targeting TE related diseases In particular the book reviews how TEs affect gene expression and contribute to diseases such as cancer neurodegenerative diseases and inherited disorders Other topics include TE polymorphisms epigenetic control co opted functions non coding RNAs and their roles in environmental stress and immune pathways Providing a comprehensive reference on the subject this book is intended for researchers and advanced students in genetics and related disciplines
