New Developments in Pathways Towards Diversity and Inclusion in STEM: A United States Perspective Alexander Gates, Juan

Gilbert, Chris Botanga, Kim Nguyen, Bonita London, 2022-10-17 The Louis Stokes Alliances for Minority Participation LSAMP program of the US National Science Foundation has been a primary force for raising the success and graduation of minority students in STEM for 30 years Increasing the number of underrepresented students earning baccalaureate degrees and entering graduate school in STEM is the goal of LSAMP This goal has been nearly achieved through the formation of alliances of degree granting institutions of higher learning varying from community colleges to major research institutions Currently there are 59 alliances including more than 400 institutions LSAMP is responsible for more than 650 000 bachelor s degrees earned by minority students in STEM The papers for this Research Topic should focus on the use of LSAMP activities programs and collaborations to develop pathways to success and graduation of STEM majors from minority groups that underrepresented in STEM These pathways can include any segment from pre college through graduate school Areas of special interest include mentoring research experiences transitions between levels and novel approaches for retention The studies should be research based and rigorous They can be pure research studies curriculum and design or literature reviews but they must be at a cutting edge level and be subject to detailed review and assessment

Academic Libraries and Public Engagement With Science and Technology Eileen Harrington, 2019-03-28 Libraries have historically played a role as a community builder providing resources and spaces where knowledge can be archived shared and created They can also play a pivotal role in fostering the public s understanding of science and scientific processes From makerspaces to data visualization labs to exhibits many libraries already delve into scientific explorations and many more could join them Scientists often need to include broader impacts goals in grant proposals but they might not know where to begin or feel that they do not have the time to devote to public engagement This is where libraries and librarians can help Research in science communication also supports tapping into libraries for public engagement with science Studies show that it is important for scientists to present findings in an apolitical way not aligning with one solution or one way of thinking and not being seen as an activist Druckman 2015 Jamieson Hardy 2014 One of the core tenets of librarians and libraries is to present information in a neutral way Research also shows that Informal conversations about science can have a greater effect on people than reading about it online or hearing about it on the news Eveland Cooper 2013 Again libraries can play a role in fostering these types of conversations Given this landscape this book will demonstrate concrete ways that libraries and librarians can play a role in fostering public engagement with science In addition to background information on the current landscape of public knowledge and understanding of science it will also include best practices and case studies of different types of programming and services that libraries can offer Often libraries do not jump to mind when people think about science education or science literacy and many librarians do not come from a science background Literature on science programming and sharing science is largely absent from the library field This book will help give confidence to librarians that they can participate in engaging the public with science At the same time it will provide a conduit to bring informal science educators communication officers from universities or research organizations who share scientific discoveries with the public and librarians together to explore ways to align their work to promote scientific literacy for all

Fulfilling the Promise John T. Kneebone, Eugene P. Trani, 2020-09-22 Founded in Richmond in 1968 Virginia Commonwealth University VCU began with a mission to build a university to serve a city emerging from the era of urban crisis desegregation white flight political conflict and economic decline With the merger of the Medical College of Virginia and the Richmond Professional Institute into the single state mandated institution of VCU the two entities were able to embrace their mission and work together productively In Fulfilling the Promise John Kneebone and Eugene Trani tell the intriguing story of VCU and the context in which the university was forged and eventually thrived Although VCU's history is necessarily unique Kneebone and Trani show how the issues shaping it are common to many urban institutions from engaging with two party politics in Virginia and African American political leadership in Richmond to fraught neighborhood relations the complexities of providing public health care at an academic health center and an increasingly diverse student body As a result Fulfilling the Promise offers far more than a stale institutional saga Rather this definitive history of one urban setting state university illuminates the past and future of American public higher education in the post 1960s era

Deconstructing Doctoral Discourses Deborah L. Mulligan, Naomi Ryan, Patrick Alan Danaher, 2023-01-01 This book identifies and challenges assumptions about the doctorate and the discourses associated with it The editors and contributors subvert and transform the de facto assumptions that frame the ways in which the doctorate is spoken and written and thus underpin approaches to planning conducting and evaluating doctoral research Giving voice to doctoral students and supervisors the book opens a pathway for their own stories why students entered doctoral study the understandings and experiences they gleaned from it and the implications for their own character The book questions what kinds of discourses help to construct contemporary doctoral research and how these might be de and reconstructed and asks what doctoral study might look like in the future Academics students and practitioners alike will find an avenue into rigorous research design from reflective and insightful scholars who provide a voice for doctoral strategies for success The Struggle for Change Marvin T. Chiles, 2023-12-28 A Black majority city with a history of the most severe segregation and inequity Richmond is still grappling with this legacy as it moves into the twenty first century Marvin Chiles now offers a unique take on Richmond s racial politics since the civil rights era by demonstrating that the city s current racial disparities in economic mobility housing and public education actually represent the unintended consequences of Richmond s racial reconciliation measures He deftly weaves municipal politics together with grassroots efforts examining the work and legacies of Richmond s Black leaders from Henry Marsh on the city council in the 1960s to Mayor Levar Stoney to highlight the urban revitalization and public history efforts meant to overcome racial divides after Jim Crow yet which ironically reinforced racial inequality across the city Compellingly written this project carries both local and broader regional significance for Richmonders Virginians southerners and all Americans
