Analogies Holt Environmental Science Analogies:

Metaphors and Analogies in Sciences and Humanities Shyam Wuppururi, A. C. Grayling, 2022-05-30 In this highly interdisciplinary volume we systematically study the role of metaphors and analogies in shaping our understanding of the world. Metaphors and Analogies occupy a prominent place in scientific discourses as they do in literature, humanities, and at the very level of our thinking itself. But when misused, they can lead us astray, blinding our understanding inexorably. How can metaphors aid us in our understanding of the world? What role do they play in our scientific discourses and in humanities? How do they help us understand and skillfully deal with our complex socio-political scenarios? Where is the dividing line between their use and abuse? Join us as we explore some of these questions in this volume.

Social Sciences in Management N.K. Sethi, 2012-12-06 The study of environment in the administrative management context is of a relatively recent vintage. It owes much to the comparative emphasis upon the applications of social disciplines within the organization's framework. It derives much from the modern perspectives of a total managerial strategy unrestricted by the limited internal firm situations. Basically, environmental studies have contributed to the incorporation of an extra business and profit dimension in the managerial functions. Much has already been written about social sciences and their behavioral utility for rational administration. After several years of teaching and consulting activities focusing on this subject, I was quite convinced, however, that an Environmental Interaction approach could contribute to the effectiveness of both the practicing manager and the preaching academician in their persuasive efforts to apply environmental outlook in everyday business decisions and functions. This is the basic rationale for this book. I am grateful to a number of people who have contributed to the direct and indirect preparation of this research study.

Unruly Complexity Peter J. Taylor, 2010-12-15 Ambitiously identifying fresh issues in the study of complex systems Peter J Taylor in a model of interdisciplinary exploration makes these concerns accessible to scholars in the fields of ecology environmental science and science studies Unruly Complexity explores concepts used to deal with complexity in three realms ecology and socio environmental change the collective constitution of knowledge and the interpretations of science as they influence subsequent research For each realm Taylor shows that unruly complexity situations that lack definite boundaries where what goes on outside continually restructures what is inside and where diverse processes come together to produce change should not be suppressed by partitioning complexity into well bounded systems that can be studied or managed from an outside vantage point Using case studies from Australia North America and Africa he encourages readers to be troubled by conventional boundaries especially between science and the interpretation of science and to reflect more self consciously on the conceptual and practical choices researchers make The Exploitation of Plant Resources in Ancient Africa Marijke van der Veen, 2013-06-29 This volume presents a completely new and very substantial body of information about the origin of agriculture and plant use in Africa. All the evidence is very recent and for the first time all this archaeobotanical evidence is brought together in one volume. At present the information is unpublished or published in many disparate journals, conference reports, monographs, site reports, etc. Early publications concerned with the origins of African plant domestication relied almost exclusively on inferences made from the modern distribution of the wild progenitors of African cultivars; there existed virtually no archaeobotanical data at that time. Even as recently as the early 1990s, direct evidence for the transition to farming and the relative roles of indigenous versus Near Eastern crops was lacking for most of Africa. This volume changes that and presents a wide range of exciting new evidence, including case studies from Nigeria, Burkina Faso, Ethiopia, Uganda, Egypt, and Sudan, which range in date from 8000 BP to the present day. The volume addresses topics such as the role of wild plant resources in hunter-gatherer and farming communities, the origins of agriculture, the agricultural foundation of complex societies, long-distance trade, the exchange of foods and crops, and the human impact on local vegetation. All key issues of current research in archaeology, anthropology, agronomy, ecology, and economic history.
