Monetary Fund. Asia and Pacific Dept

2015 Calender Brunei:

Brunei Darussalam International Monetary Fund. Asia and Pacific Dept, 2022-09-16 After successfully weathering the pandemic in 2020 Brunei was hit by new waves of COVID 19 with case numbers going up significantly and new lockdown measures imposed in H2 2021 Reduced activities in mining and LNG manufacturing combined with the negative impact of new pandemic variants on domestic services led to a slowdown in the economy Real GDP contracted by 1.6 percent in 2021 For 2022 growth is projected to rebound to 1.2 percent on the back of easing of mobility constraints and a positive terms of trade shock due to surges in O G prices Inflation while remaining relatively low at 2.2 percent at end 2021 has increased in 2022 and pressures are expected to remain elevated in the short term owing to supply disruptions and higher food and fuel prices The economy continues to diversify with double digit growth of the food agriculture sector and a new fertilizer sector commencing production The risks to the outlook are tilted to the downside due to potential new COVID 19 variants increased global uncertainty associated with an escalation of the war in Ukraine monetary tightening from the US and a larger than expected growth slowdown in China On the upside higher energy prices would further improve the terms of trade and restore fiscal positions in the short term while partially contributing to build the buffers needed to ensure stronger intergenerational equity Strong policy actions are needed to boost medium term growth and foster resilience

Brunei Darussalam International Monetary Fund. Asia and Pacific Dept, 2023-10-06 Context and Recent Developments Brunei's high vaccination rates have allowed for the removal of COVID 19 restrictions and reopening of borders however reduced oil and gas O G production have undermined the recovery The financial sector remains liquid and well capitalized High fuel prices helped strengthen the fiscal and external positions in 2022 Inflation hit a historical high but has recently declined The 2023 Article IV consultation took place in the context of a volatile O G market and a difficult external environment Key policy challenges include the narrowing fiscal space the need to shield the economy against O G price and output volatility global decarbonization pressures and ensuring inter generational equity The government is committed to diversifying towards a low carbon economy
