

All My sons

Arthur Miller

Short summary:

Joe and Kate Keller had two sons, Chris and Larry. Keller was a successful businessman owned a manufacturing plant with Steve Deever, and their families were close. During the war, Keller's and Deever's manufacturing plant had a very profitable contract with the U.S. Army, supplying airplane parts. One morning, a shipment of defective parts came in. Keller didn't want to slow business he sent a group that he knew to be defective (not working perfectly), and twenty-one pilots died as a result.

Steve and Keller were arrested, but Keller claimed that the parts went out without his knowledge and that his partner was the one who had covered it up. Keller went home free, while Steve remained in jail.

Larry, was missing in action, but his mother insisted that he was still alive. Later we learn that he committed suicide on learning of his father's arrest.

Chris has asked Ann (Steve's daughter and Larry's old girlfriend) to marry him. Ann's brother George arrived to stop the wedding. He had gone to visit Steve in jail to tell him that his daughter was getting married, and then he left newly convinced that his father was innocent and convinced of Keller's guilt. Chris's confidence in his father's innocence is shaken, however, and in a confrontation with his parents, he is told by Mother that he must believe that Larry is alive. If Larry is dead, Mother claims, then it means that Keller killed him by shipping out those defective parts.

Mother told Keller that he ought to volunteer to go to jail if Chris wanted him to. She also talked to Ann and continued insisting that Larry is alive. Ann was forced to show Mother the letter that Larry wrote to her before he died, which was essentially a suicide note. The note basically confirms Mother's belief that if Larry is dead, then Keller is responsible—not because Larry's plane had the defective parts, but because Larry killed himself in response to the family responsibility and shame due to the defective parts.

Keller entered, and Mother was unable to prevent Chris from reading Larry's letter aloud. Keller now finally understood that all the dead pilots were his sons. He says that he was going into the house to get a jacket, and then he would drive to the jail. But a moment later, a gunshot is heard—Keller has killed himself.

Looking at Medea David Stuttard, 2014-05-22 Euripides Medea is one of the most often read studied and performed of all Greek tragedies A searingly cruel story of a woman's brutal revenge on a husband who has rejected her for a younger and richer bride it is unusual among Greek dramas for its acute portrayal of female psychology Medea can appear at once timeless and strikingly modern Yet the play is very much a product of the political and social world of fifth century Athens and an understanding of its original context as well as a consideration of the responses of later ages is crucial to appreciating this work and its legacy This collection of essays by leading academics addresses these issues exploring key themes such as revenge character mythology the end of the play the chorus and Medea's role as a witch Other essays look at the play's context religious connotations stagecraft and reception The essays are accompanied by David Stuttard's English translation of the play which is performer friendly accessible yet accurate and closely faithful to the original We the Storytellers Sally Armour Wotton, 2013-10-11 We the Storytellers provides examples and techniques for expressing deeply held beliefs through the oldest form of communication stories This book can be used as a resource on narrative theology for preachers teachers and storytellers Narrative theology is about peeling back the known to discover the unknown Rather than pronouncing facts it gives an opportunity for an ah ha experience In a sermon it allows the hearer to grasp an element of truth through fiction or personal story Jesus's method And narrative theology is about revealing the relationship between God and God's people What better way to look at relationships than through stories The book is written in two parts Part 1 asks what is a sacred story and offers a number of possibilities Part 2 is a workshop on acting writing and presentation skills aimed at those who are drawn to expressing themselves through stories The stories here are from Sally's own life experiences the monologues from her imagination Each story is related to a theme and is humorous poignant and human We the Storytellers will inspire and equip its readers to develop and perform their own sacred stories
