Doing History Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2022-09-06 Now in its sixth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The book is grounded in the view that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry asking questions collecting and analyzing evidence examining the varied perspectives and experiences of people in the past and creating evidence based historical accounts and interpretations Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature art writing and discussion The authors explain how these classrooms reflect contemporary principles of teaching and learning and thus the descriptions not only provide specific examples of successful activities but also place them in a context that allows teachers to adapt and apply them in a wide range of settings Doing History emphasizes diversity in two ways Readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and see how their diverse experiences can form the foundation for learning and they also see examples of how teachers can engage students with diverse experiences and perspectives in the past including those that led to conflict and oppression The book also discusses principles for working with English learners and newcomers and it provides guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children s learning Updates to this edition include updated historical and instructional examples to ensure currency new suggestions for children s literature to support good teaching expanded attention to teaching about oppressed groups in history and greater attention to when historical perspective taking is and is not appropriate

Teacher Training for English-Medium Instruction in Higher Education Sánchez-Pérez, Maria del Mar,2020-02-07 English medium instruction EMI has become a pervasive teaching model in recent higher education The implementation of EMI programs requires changes in university teaching methods since most lecturers need to adapt their contents and the way they teach them to successfully work in foreign language environments The rapid proliferation of such programs has resulted in concern among teaching staff who have felt pushed towards teaching their subject content through a non native language with little or no previous training As a result many recent studies have highlighted the importance and urgency to train teaching staff in terms of language proficiency and the appropriate teaching methods techniques and strategies to be applied in EMI lessons Teacher Training for English Medium Instruction in Higher Education is an academic research publication that provides comprehensive research on effective approaches and experiences in teacher training for EMI at universities both in terms of language skills and teaching methodologies and that analyzes the design and development of comprehensive teacher training programs that successfully engage these EMI programs It has profound implications for the development of the international profile of higher education institutions as it provides information on how to train highly qualified lecturers to successfully teach students from different nationalities Featuring a wide range of topics such as assessment curriculum design and learning styles this book is ideal for pre and in service teachers language specialists content specialists administrators deans higher education faculty researchers practitioners curriculum designers policymakers academicians and students
