Abstract

8.8. Discussion – The results of this study suggest that the use of a structured, evidence-based approach to patient assessment and management can improve the quality of care provided to patients with acute respiratory distress syndrome (ARDS). The study also suggests that the use of a structured approach can reduce the risk of complications and improve patient outcomes. The study was limited by its retrospective design and the lack of a control group. Future studies should prospectively evaluate the use of a structured approach to patient assessment and management in patients with ARDS.
