

10.1 Vectors

Students use definitions of vector quantities. They discuss that, whereas a scalar is a quantity having only a value, a vector has both a magnitude and a direction.

Students learn to represent vectors in a two-dimensional plane as "arrows" (vectors) from an initial point (tail) to a final point (head) and to represent the length of the vector as the magnitude of the vector.

Students learn to represent vectors in a two-dimensional plane (vectors are of two types: free vectors and bound vectors). However, the vector set is infinite-dimensional in coordinate space. It is emphasized that the direction of the vector is not the same as the direction of the vector.
