Emerging Technologies to Promote and Evaluate Physical Activity Dan J Graham, James Aaron Hipp, Simon Marshall, Jacqueline Kerr, 2014-10-23

Increasingly efforts to promote and measure physical activity are achieving greater precision greater ease of use and or greater scope by incorporating emerging technologies This is significant for physical activity promotion because more precise measurement will allow investigators to better understand where when and how physical activity is and is not occurring thus enabling more effective targeting of particular behavior settings Emerging technologies associated with the measurement and evaluation of physical activity are noteworthy because

- 1 Their ease of use and transferability can greatly increase external validity of measures and findings
- 2 Technologies can significantly increase the ability to analyze patterns
- 3 They can improve the ongoing systematic collection and analysis of public health surveillance due to real time capabilities associated with many emerging technologies
- 4 There is a need for research and papers about the cyberinfrastructure required to cope with big data multiple streams processing aggregation visualization etc and
- 5 Increasingly blurred boundaries between measurement and intervention activity e g the quantified self self tracking movement may necessitate a reevaluation of the conventional scientific model for designing and evaluating these sorts of studies

There have been many recent disparate advances related to this topic Advances such as crowdsourcing allow for input from large diverse audiences that can help to identify and improve infrastructure for activity e g large group identification of environmental features that are conducive or inhibiting to physical activity on a national and even global scale Technologies such as Global Positioning Systems GPS and accelerometry are now available in many mobile phones and can be used for identifying and promoting activity and also understanding naturalistically occurring activity SenseCam and other personal visual devices and mobile apps provide person point of view context to physical activity lifestyle and timing Further multiple sensor systems are enabling better identification of types of activities like stair climbing and jumping that could not previously be identified readily using objective measures like pedometers or accelerometers in isolation The ability of activity sensors to send data to remote servers allows for the incorporation of online technology e g employing an online social network as a source of inspiration or accountability to achieve physical activity goals and websites such as Stickk com enable individuals to make public contracts visible to other users and also incorporates financial incentives and disincentives in order to promote behaviors including physical activity In addition the increasing use of active gaming e g Wii XBox Kinect in homes schools and other venues further underscores the growing link between technology and physical activity Improvements in mathematical models and computer algorithms also allow greater capacity for classifying and evaluating physical activity improving consistency across research studies

Emerging technologies in the promotion and evaluation of physical activity is a significant area of interest because of its ability to greatly increase the amount and quality of global recorded measurements of PA patterns and its potential to more effectively promote PA Emerging technologies related to physical activity build on our own and others interdisciplinary collaborations in employing technology to address public health challenges This research area is innovative in that it uses emerging resources including social media crowdsourcing and online gaming to better understand patterns of physical activity

Against Individualism Henry Rosemont Jr., 2015-03-25 The first part of Against Individualism A Confucian Rethinking of the Foundations of Morality Politics Family and Religion is devoted to showing how and why the vision of human beings as free independent and autonomous individuals is and always was a mirage that has served liberatory functions in the past but has now become pernicious for even thinking clearly about much less achieving social and economic justice maintaining democracy or addressing the manifold environmental and other problems facing the world today In the second and larger part of the book Rosemont proffers a different vision of being human gleaned from the texts of classical Confucianism namely that we are first and foremost interrelated and thus interdependent persons whose uniqueness lies in the multiplicity of roles we each live throughout our lives This leads to an ethics based on those mutual roles in sharp contrast to individualist moralities but which nevertheless reflect the facts of our everyday lives very well The book concludes by exploring briefly a number of implications of this vision for thinking differently about politics family life justice and the development of a human centered authentic religiousness This book will be of value to all students and scholars of philosophy political theory and Religious Chinese and Family Studies as well as everyone interested in the intersection of morality with their everyday and public lives

Preventing Prison Violence Armon J. Tamatea, Andrew J. Day, David J. Cooke, 2023-09-08 Preventing Prison Violence introduces the idea of prison ecologies a multi layered perspective to understanding prison violence as a product of human environment social and physical systemic and societal influences and how an ecological approach is helpful to prevention efforts Interpersonal violence is a global concern and a significant cause of death around the world In prisons the human financial and health burden of violence presents a significant social issue as well as a wicked problem that does not permit of simplistic solutions Recent innovations in data capture means that questions about violence gang affiliations and prisons that could not be answered previously can now be explored The central theme of this book is that prisons are ecologies spaces where people resources and the built environment are interrelated and that violence is a product of a complex of interpersonal and environmental factors that increase the likelihood of assault but also provide opportunities for solutions Drawing on psychology geography indigenous knowledge gang culture and predictive modelling this book expands beyond the conventional individual focused assessment intervention prevention approach to research in this field towards a holistic and ecological way of thinking that recognises individual organisational and cultural factors as well as the role of the physical environment itself in the facilitation and prohibition of aggression Providing a comprehensive resource for those who are interested in making prisons safer firmly based in contemporary research and theory Preventing Prison Violence will be of great interest to students and scholars of Penology Violence and Forensic Psychology as well as to professionals working in criminal justice settings
