Cignacco, 2023-12-01 There are several well-ingrained assumptions regarding the dynamics of work and business activities which can be refuted Some examples of these widespread assumptions in business and work environments are employees being viewed as commodities competitors perceived as threats companies' resources seen as limited and customers perceived as scarce and difficult All this leads to the question Is there a way to perform business activities more humanely The second edition of this book challenges the reader to change the way they perform in business situations and become more focused on the human aspects of business activities. The users of this knowledge and those affected by them will undergo a profound transformation in the way they perform business activities. They will benefit from gradually testing and implementing the guidelines conveyed in this book both in the business environment and in the workplace. When readers put these principles into practice, positive ripple effects are bound to affect other stakeholders of the organisation they work for or own. The author has refreshed all the concepts and examples introduced in the first edition which include aspects related to mission and vision, passion, business mindset, organisational learning, improvement of business conversations, use of constructive criticism, and betterment of relationships with the most relevant stakeholders: customers, suppliers, intermediaries, community, employees, etc. The author also includes a discussion of creativity and the innovation process, as well as other relevant aspects related to a healthy business environment and provides various real life examples of companies which have adopted a loving attitude towards their stakeholders, which has become so important in the current business environment.

Fifteen are conducting investigations in vegetable physiology, nine in animal physiology and nutrition, two on soils, three in dairying, four in sugar beet culture, two in fruit and vine culture, one in agricultural physics, eight in chemistry or chemical technology, four in agricultural technology, two upon commercial agricultural products, especially wine and tobacco, and three upon beer brewing. Nine of the stations have vegetation houses for experiments in vegetable physiology, nine have experimental fields, seven have feeding stalls for experimental purposes, four have experimental gardens, two have special arrangements for animals under experiment. Haustiergarten, two are equipped with Pettenkofers respiration apparatus and one with a horse dynamometer. The German stations are like ours in the general character of their work and in the fact of their connection with educational institutions, but since the latter institutions are under the control of the government, which also supplies a large amount of the revenues of the stations and appoint many of their officers, the stations are more directly subject to governmental supervision than ours. It should be observed that agricultural societies exercise the most important influence in their management; many of the stations were established by these societies and receive a considerable portion of their revenue from them. The revenues are smaller than ours, as are salaries and other expenses. A much larger proportion of the revenue comes from analyses of fertilizers and other commercial products. In general, the

How Does Bribery Affect Public Service Delivery? Francesca Recanatini,

Deployable Multimodal Machine Intelligence Hongliang Ren, 2023-02-04. This book highlights the principles, design, and characterization of mechanically compliant soft and foldable robots. Traditional rigid robots with bulky footprints and complicated components prolong the design iteration and optimization for keyhole and minimally invasive transluminal applications. Therefore, there is an interest in developing soft and foldable robots with remote actuation, multimodal sensing, and machine intelligence. This book discusses the use of foldable and cuttable structures to design biomimetic deployable soft robots that can exhibit a fair number of motions with consistency and repeatability. It presents the overall design principles, methodology, instrumentation, metamorphic sensing, multi-modal perception, and machine intelligence for creating untethered foldable active structures. These robotic structures can generate a variety of motions such as wave induction, compression, inchworm peristalsis, flipping, tumbling, walking, swimming, flexion, extension, etc. Remote actuation can control motions along regular and irregular surfaces from proximal sides. For self-deployable medical robots, motion diversity and shape reconfiguration are crucial factors. Deployable robots with the use of malleable and resilient smart actuators hold this crucial advantage over their conventional rigid robot counterparts. Such flexible structures capable of being compressed and expanded with intelligence and perceptions hold enormous potential in biomedical applications.
