Algorithmic Regulation Karen Yeung, Martin Lodge, 2019 As the power and sophistication of big data and predictive analytics has continued to expand so too has policy and public concern about the use of algorithms in contemporary life This is hardly surprising given our increasing reliance on algorithms in daily life touching policy sectors from healthcare transport finance consumer retail manufacturing education and employment through to public service provision and the operation of the criminal justice system This has prompted concerns about the need and importance of holding algorithmic power to account yet it is far from clear that existing legal and other oversight mechanisms are up to the task This collection of essays edited by two leading regulatory governance scholars offers a critical exploration of algorithmic regulation understood both as a means for co ordinating and regulating social action and decision making as well as the need for institutional mechanisms through which the power of algorithms and algorithmic systems might themselves be regulated It offers a unique perspective that is likely to become a significant reference point for the ever growing debates about the power of algorithms in daily life in the worlds of research policy and practice The range of contributors are drawn from a broad range of disciplinary perspectives including law public administration applied philosophy data science and artificial intelligence Taken together they highlight the rise of algorithmic power the potential benefits and risks associated with this power the way in which Sheila Jasanoff s long standing claim that technology is politics has been thrown into sharp relief by the speed and scale at which algorithmic systems are proliferating and the urgent need for wider public debate and engagement of their underlying values and value trade offs the way in which they affect individual and collective decision making and action and effective and legitimate mechanisms by and through which algorithmic power is held to account , Clipped

DC Confidential David Schoenbrod, 2017-03-07 You think you know why our government in Washington is broken but you really don t You think it s broken because politicians curry favor with special interests and activists of the Left or Right There s something to that and it helps explain why these politicians can t find common ground but it misses the root cause A half century ago elected officials in Congress and the White House figured out a new system for enacting laws and spending programs one that lets them take credit for promising good news while avoiding blame for government producing bad results With five key tricks politicians of both parties now avoid accounting to us for what government actually does to us While you understand that these politicians seem to pull rabbits out of hats hardly anyone sees the sleight of hand by which they get away with their tricks Otherwise their tricks wouldn t work DC Confidential exposes the sleights of hand Once they are brought to light we can stop the tricks fix our broken government and make Washington work for us once again The book explains the necessary reform and lays out an action plan to put it in place Stopping the tricks would be a constructive inclusive response to the anger that Americans from across the political spectrum feel toward what should be our government
