American History Connecting Past Volume:

Connecting Past and Present Ira Harkavy, Bill M. Donovan, 2023-07-03 The question that animates volume 16th in the Service Learning in the Disciplines Series is Why connect service learning to history courses The contributors answer that question in different ways and illustrate and highlight a diversity of historical approaches and interpretations All agree however that they do their jobs better as teachers and in some cases as researchers by engaging their students in service learning An interesting read with a compelling case for the importance of history and how service learning can improve the historian's craft

American History: Connecting with the Past Volume 2 Alan Brinkley, 2014-10-07 Brinkley's American History a comprehensive U S History program transforms the learning experience through proven adaptive technology helping students better grasp the issues of the past while providing instructors greater insight on student performance Known for its clear single voice and balanced scholarship Brinkley asks students to think historically about the many forces shaping and re-shaping our dynamic history Connect is the only integrated learning system that empowers students by continuously adapting to deliver precisely what they need when they need it and how they need it so that your class time is more engaging and effective

Connected Worlds Ann Curthoys, Marilyn Lake, 2006-03-01 This volume brings together historians of imperialism and race travel and modernity Islam and India the Pacific and the Atlantic to show how a transnational approach to history offers fresh insights into the past Transnational history is a form of scholarship that has been revolutionising our understanding of history in the last decade With a focus on interconnectedness across national borders of ideas events technologies and individual lives it moves beyond the national frames of analysis that so often blinker and restrict our understanding of the past Many of the essays also show how expertise in Australian history can contribute to and benefit from new transnational approaches to history Through an examination of such diverse subjects as film modernity immigration politics and romance Connected Worlds weaves an historical matrix which transports the reader beyond the local into a realm which re-defines the meaning of humanity in all its complexity Contributors include Tony Ballantyne Desley Deacon John Fitzgerald Patrick Wolfe and Angela Woollacott

The Science of Government in Connection with American Institutions Joseph Alden, 1866 Homesteading the Plains Richard Edwards, Jacob K. Friefeld, Rebecca S. Wingo, 2017 Homesteading the Plains offers a bold new look at the history of homesteading overturning what for decades has been the orthodox scholarly view The authors begin by noting the striking disparity between the public's perception of homesteading as a cherished part of our national narrative and most scholars harshly negative and dismissive treatment Homesteading the Plains reexamines old data and draws from newly available digitized records to reassess the current interpretation's four principal tenets homesteading was a minor factor in farm formation with most Western farmers purchasing their land most homesteaders failed to prove up their claims the homesteading process was rife with corruption and fraud and homesteading caused Indian land dispossession Using data instead of anecdotes and focusing mainly on the nineteenth century Homesteading the Plains demonstrates that the first three tenets are wrong and the fourth only partially true In short the public s perception of homesteading is perhaps more accurate than the one scholars have constructed Homesteading the Plains provides the basis for an understanding of homesteading that is startlingly different from current scholarly orthodoxy

The Connected Past Tom Brughmans, Anna Collar, Fiona Coward, 2016-03-04 One of the most exciting recent developments in archaeology and history has been the adoption of new perspectives which see human societies in the past as in the present as made up of networks of interlinked individuals This view of people as always connected through physical and conceptual networks along which resources information and disease flow requires archaeologists and historians to use new methods to understand how these networks form function and change over time The Connected Past provides a constructive methodological and theoretical critique of the growth in research applying network perspectives in archaeology and history and considers the unique challenges presented by datasets in these disciplines including the fragmentary and material nature of such data and the functioning and change of social processes over long timespans An international and multidisciplinary range of scholars debate both the rationale and practicalities of applying network methodologies addressing the merits and drawbacks of specific techniques of analysis for a range of datasets and research questions and demonstrating their approaches with concrete case studies and detailed illustrations As well as revealing the valuable contributions archaeologists and historians can make to network science the volume represents a crucial step towards the development of best practice in the field especially in exploring the interactions between social and material elements of networks and long term network evolution The American Historical Record Anonymous,2023-02-05 Reprint of the original Looseleaf for American History: Connecting with the Past Volume 1 Alan Brinkley,2014-10-03 Higher Education: Handbook of Theory and Research Laura W.
