Environmental performance of pig supply chains: Guidelines for assessment (Version 1) Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-02-23 This is a living document produced by the Livestock Environmental and Assessment Performance LEAP Partnership The document presents a methodology and provides guidance for the assessment of the environmental performance of pig supply chains It provides users guidance on how to apply the life cycle assessment approach to pig supply chains Demand for livestock products is projected to grow 1.3 percent per year until 2050 driven by global population growth and increasing wealth and urbanization This projected growth places significant pressure on the livestock sector to perform in a more sustainable way Currently many different methods are used to assess the environmental impacts and performance of livestock products This causes confusion and makes it difficult to compare results and set priorities for continuing improvement The intention of this document is to provide an overview assessment of existing studies and associated methods that have used life cycle assessment for the evaluation of pig supply chains

Noah's Ravens James O. Farlow,2018-10-08 How can the tracks of dinosaurs best be interpreted and used to reconstruct them In many Mesozoic sedimentary rock formations fossilized footprints of bipedal three toed tridactyl dinosaurs are preserved in huge numbers often with few or no skeletons Such tracks sometimes provide the only clues to the former presence of dinosaurs but their interpretation can be challenging How different in size and shape can footprints be and yet have been made by the same kind of dinosaur How similar can they be and yet have been made by different kinds of dinosaurs To what extent can tridactyl dinosaur footprints serve as proxies for the biodiversity of their makers Profusely illustrated and meticulously researched Noah s Ravens quantitatively explores a variety of approaches to interpreting the tracks carefully examining within species and across species variability in foot and footprint shape in nonavian dinosaurs and their close living relatives The results help decipher one of the world s most important assemblages of fossil dinosaur tracks found in sedimentary rocks deposited in ancient rift valleys of eastern North America Those often beautifully preserved tracks were among the first studied by paleontologists and they were initially interpreted as having been made by big birds one of which was jokingly identified as Noah s legendary raven Dinosaurs and Other Extinct Saurians Richard Moody,2010 The discovery of dinosaurs and other large extinct saurians a term under which the Victorians commonly lumped ichthyosaurs plesiosaurs pterosaurs and their kin makes exciting reading and has caught the attention of palaeontologists historians of science and the general public alike The papers in this collection go beyond the familiar tales about famous fossil hunters and focus on relatively little known episodes in the discovery and interpretation from both a scientific and an artistic point of view of dinosaurs and other inhabitants of the Mesozoic world They cover a long time span from the beginnings of modern scientific palaeontology in the 1700s to the present and deal with many parts of the world from the Yorkshire coast to Central India from Bavaria to the Sahara The characters in these stories include professional palaeontologists and geologists some of them well known others quite obscure explorers amateur fossil collectors and artists linked together by their interest in Mesozoic creatures Ecological Footprint of the Modern Economy and the Ways to Reduce It Bruno S.
