Prevalence of Bullying Behavior

Peer victimization is a significant problem in U.S. schools. In 1999, an estimated 5% of students ages 12 through 18 reported fearing attack or harm at school (U.S. Department of Education [USDE], 2000). In a recent national study, Nansel, et al. (2001) found that about 30% of 6th-through 10th-grade students had been involved in bullying incidents with moderate or frequent regularity. Similar prevalence rates can be found in the state of Florida. For example, in a study by Bully Police, USA, they found that of the 2, 701, 022 school age children in Florida, approximately 442, 157 students were involved in bullying.

Defining Bullying

Researchers commonly define peer victimization or bullying as a negative act of aggression (or oppression) which is unprovoked, is deliberately intended to cause harm, is carried out repeatedly over time and involves an actual and/or perceived imbalance of power in which the aggressor or group of aggressors are physically or psychologically more powerful than the victim (Boulton & Underwood, 1992; Farrington, 1993; Olweus, 1999; Rigby, 1996; Smith & Thompson, 1991). To clarify further, the USDE (1998) indicates that bullying can take the form of physical abuse (e.g., hitting, punching), verbal abuse (e.g., name-calling, threats), emotional abuse (e.g., ostracizing, humiliating, maliciously gossiping, rating/ranking personal characteristics such as race or sexual orientation), sexual abuse (e.g., sexual assault, sexual harassment), or hazing (imposing hurtful or embarrassing rituals against new students or team members). Recently, cyber-bullying has become another form of victimization. Cyber-bullying can be defined as sending or posting harmful or hurtful messages using the internet or other digital forms of communication (Willard, 2004).

Consequences of Bullying

The effect of bullying others and being victimized can significantly impact a student's performance in the classroom. For example Nansel, et al. (2001) found that bullies are less interested in school than students not involved in bullying. In addition both bullies and victims were more likely to experience feelings of loneliness and poor relationships with classmates than students not involved in bullying. Moreover, in a review of the literature, Dake, Price, & Telljohann (2003) found that bullies are more likely to have lower academic achievement. Supporting this is Garrett's (2003) finding that being victimized can lead to declining grades.

Dake et al., also found that victims of bullies tend to be less popular in school than other students not involved in bullying. As a result of being bullied, 16% of boys and 31% of girls reported being absent from school in attempts to avoid being victimized (Rigby, 1998).

In addition to bullying's effects on students' academic performance, there is substantial evidence that bullying impacts the mental health of our students. Supporting this is Nansel, et al.'s (2001) finding that children who are bullied have poor psychosocial functioning compared with students
