

Army Flight Warrant Officer SIFT Test Study Guide with Complete Solutions

Helicopter Structure - Answer✓✓-The typical structure of a helicopter is a fuselage (the body of the craft) with a mast protruding upward out of it. The engine of the craft drives power upward through the mast to the rotor blades, which are controlled by the pilot. This main rotor is used to generate thrust. This thrust is balanced by a second rotor, usually a tail rotor, which is intended to account for the effects of torque. In the USA, UK and Germany, it is conventional for the main rotor to rotate counterclockwise. The opposite is true in other countries. Throughout this book, reference will be made only to counterclockwise main rotors.

Single Main Rotor Helicopter - Answer✓✓-This is the most common design for a helicopter -a single main rotor generating power, with a secondary rotor, such as a tail rotor, used to offset the effects of torque. One disadvantage of this design is that some power is used for countering torque, rather than being used solely for lift.

Co-axial Rotor Helicopter - Answer✓✓-This type of helicopter features two sets of blades rotating above and beneath each other. The two sets of blades are mounted to the same mast, but rotate in opposite directions to each other. This has the advantage of reducing payload and allowing for greater cargo and passenger capacity as a result.

Tandem Rotor Helicopter - Answer✓✓-This helicopter design features two main rotating blade sections: front and rear. Each set of blades rotates counter to the other, meaning that torque is automatically offset. There is no need for additional measures, such as a tail rotor, to deal with torque. Because of this,
