Copyright Office, 1958 Includes Part 1 Number 1 2 Books and Pamphlets Including Serials and Contributions to Periodicals January December A Life Teaching Languages Linda Watkins-Goffman, 2015-09-22 Everyone faces crossroads While not everyone meets at the same crossroads we all juggle multiple identities It is these roles sometimes conflicting and other times fitting together seamlessly that Linda Watkins Goffman explores in A Life Teaching Languages A Memoir from Mississippi to the Bronx In this memoir of an educator Watkins Goffman offers insights she has gained from her years of traveling teaching and writing and shares how her experiences have shaped her teaching philosophy According to Watkins Goffman teachers must communicate authentically to teach effectively and to accomplish this they must connect their own experiences in some way with those of their students The stories she tells are sure to resonate with pre service and practicing teachers alike Her reflections about her own experiences will be useful to readers who plan to become ESL educators or those who simply seek inspiration about teaching How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph, 2019-06-01 A former Wisconsin high school science teacher makes the case that how and why we teach science matters especially now that its legitimacy is under attack Why teach science The answer to that question will determine how it is taught Yet despite the enduring belief in this country that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process Nearly all of the basic knowledge we have about the world is rock solid The science we teach in high schools in particular laws of motion the structure of the atom cell division DNA replication the universal speed limit of light is accepted as the way nature works Everyone also agrees that students and the public more generally should understand the methods used to gain this knowledge But what exactly is the scientific method Ever since the late 1800s scientists and science educators have grappled with that question Through the years they've advanced an assortment of strategies ranging from the laboratory method to the five step method to science as inquiry to no method at all How We Teach Science reveals that each strategy was influenced by the intellectual cultural and political circumstances of the time In some eras learning about experimentation and scientific inquiry was seen to contribute to an individual's intellectual and moral improvement while in others it was viewed as a way to minimize public interference in institutional science John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and ultimately determine how science is perceived and received by the public
