The image displays a collection of overlapping question cards, each containing a question and its corresponding answer. The cards are organized into several categories:

- Comprehension Questions: These cards contain questions that require understanding and interpretation of a text. Examples include:
 - "What does the author's main purpose in writing this passage seem to be?"
 - "What is the author's attitude toward the subject of the passage?"
 - "What is the author's main purpose in writing this passage?"
- Multiple Choice Questions: These cards contain questions with four possible answers, one of which is correct. Examples include:
 - "Which of the following best describes the author's attitude toward the subject of the passage?"
 - "Which of the following best describes the author's main purpose in writing this passage?"
- True and False: These cards contain questions that require a simple 'True' or 'False' answer. Examples include:
 - "The author's main purpose in writing this passage is to inform the reader about the subject of the passage." (True)
 - "The author's main purpose in writing this passage is to entertain the reader." (False)

Red arrows point from the question cards to a central box labeled Answer keys, indicating that the answers to all the questions are provided in this central location.
