Evaluating Information Retrieval and Access Tasks Tetsuya Sakai, Douglas W. Oard, Noriko Kando, 2020-09-01 This open access book summarizes the first two decades of the NII Testbeds and Community for Information access Research NTCIR. NTCIR is a series of evaluation forums run by a global team of researchers and hosted by the National Institute of Informatics, NII, Japan. The book is unique in that it discusses not just what was done at NTCIR but also how it was done and the impact it has achieved. For example, in some chapters the reader sees the early seeds of what eventually grew to be the search engines that provide access to content on the World Wide Web today's smartphones that can tailor what they show to the needs of their owners and the smart speakers that enrich our lives at home and on the move. We also get glimpses into how new search engines can be built for mathematical formulae or for the digital record of a lived human life. Key to the success of the NTCIR endeavor was early recognition that information access research is an empirical discipline and that evaluation therefore lay at the core of the enterprise. Evaluation is thus at the heart of each chapter in this book. They show, for example, how the recognition that some documents are more important than others has shaped thinking about evaluation design. The thirty-three contributors to this volume speak for the many hundreds of researchers from dozens of countries around the world who together shaped NTCIR as organizers and participants. This book is suitable for researchers, practitioners, and students; anyone who wants to learn about past and present evaluation efforts in information retrieval, information access, and natural language processing, as well as those who want to participate in an evaluation task or even to design and organize one.

Social Information Access Peter Brusilovsky, Daqing He, 2018-05-02 Social information access is defined as a stream of research that explores methods for organizing the past interactions of users in a community in order to provide future users with better access to information. Social information access covers a wide range of different technologies and strategies that operate on a different scale, which can range from a small closed corpus site to the whole Web. The 16 chapters included in this book provide a broad overview of modern research on social information access. In order to provide a balanced coverage, these chapters are organized by the main types of information access: i.e. social search, social navigation, and recommendation, and main sources of social information.

Intermediate Access M.L. Humphrey, 2020-02-06 Intermediate Access picks up where Access for Beginners left off. This time the focus is on more advanced query types like union queries and crosstab queries, as well as how to add default values and validation rules to tables. And then the rest of the book focuses on forms and reports and how to generate, customize, and format them. By the time you finish Intermediate Access, you should be able to work comfortably in Access on a daily basis. If you've always wanted to learn Access and were a little intimidated, this is the series for you. keywords: microsoft access, access 2013, crosstab queries, union queries, fixed value in query, data validation in table, expression builder, forms, reports, include user input in query.

Clearinghouse Review, 2012 A Thematic Access-Oriented Bibliography of Jesus's Resurrection Michael J.

Alter, 2019-12-31 The keystone of Christianity is Jesus's physical bodily resurrection. Present-day scholars can be significantly challenged as they forage through voluminous documents on the resurrection of Jesus. The literature measures well over seven thousand sources in English language books alone. This makes finding specific sources that are most relevant for specific scholarly purposes an arduous task. Even when a specific book is relevant, finding the parts of the book that are most relevant to the resurrection rather than other topics often requires additional effort. A Thematic Access Oriented Bibliography of Jesus's Resurrection addresses these challenges in several ways. First, the bibliography organizes more than seven thousand English sources into twelve main categories and then thirty-four subcategories which are designed to help you find the most relevant literature quickly and efficiently. Embedded are pro and con arguments which support efficient access through brief annotations and then annotate the diversity and complexity of the field of religion by including sources that represent a diverse range of views: theistic e.g. Christian, Jewish, Muslim, etc., agnostic, and nontheistic. The objective of this bibliography is to provide convenient access to relevant sources from a variety of perspectives, allowing you to browse or find the one source accurately and with ease. UGC NET Environmental Science 3000 + [MCQ] Question Answer E-book
