

Short Answers for Class 11 Accountancy Chapter 2 – Theory Base of Accounting

1. Why is it necessary for accountants to assume that a business entity will remain a going concern?

It is necessary for accountants to consider that a business entity will remain a going concern, as an asset will be calculated for the profit it earns, along with the depreciation it is charged, both of which are not restricted only for one accounting period. Hence, it indicates continuity in business.

2. When should revenue be recognised? Are there exceptions to the general rule?

Revenue is recognised if the right to receive income is established. It can also be said to have been established when a sale takes place in cash or in credit.

The following exceptions can be seen:

1. Goods that are sold on hire purchase, the amount thus collected in instalments will be accounted as revenue realised.
2. Projects related to the construction of buildings, etc., are projects of long duration; revenue is realised periodically that is in proportion to the part of work which is completed.

3. What is the basic accounting equation?

The assets of a business are equal to the claims of its owners and creditors, as per the basic accounting equation. Liabilities are known as Creditor's Equity, and Capital is known as Owner's Equity. It is represented as

$\text{Assets} = \text{Capital} + \text{Liabilities}$

4. The realisation concept determines when goods sent on credit to customers are to be included in the sales figure for the purpose of computing the profit or loss for the accounting period. Which of the following trends is to be used in practice to determine when to include a transaction in the sales figure for the period? When the goods have been:

- a. dispatched b. invoiced
