James Prosek James Prosek, 2020-07-07 Works by Prosek and others are juxtaposed with natural objects in an illuminating interrogation of the artificial boundaries we create between art and nature Award winning artist writer and naturalist James Prosek b 1975 has gained a worldwide following for his deep connection with the natural world which serves as the basis for his art and numerous popular books In this cross disciplinary catalogue Prosek poses the question What is art and what is artifact and to what extent do these distinctions matter Drawing on the collections of the Yale University Art Gallery and the Yale Peabody Museum of Natural History Prosek places man and nature made objects on equal footing aesthetically suggesting that the distinction between them is not as vast as we may believe In more than 150 full color plates objects such as a bird s nest dinosaur head and cuneiform tablet are juxtaposed with Asian handscrolls an African headdress modern masterpieces and more Artists featured include Albrecht D r er Helen Frankenthaler Vincent van Gogh Barbara Hepworth Pablo Picasso and Jackson Pollack as well as Prosek himself whose works depict fish birds and endangered wildlife Also included are an incisive essay by Edith Devaney and texts by Prosek that explore the magnificent productions of our wondrous interconnected world

Agriculture and Animal Husbandry ,1950 Worldly Gurus and Spiritual Kings Tamara I. Sears, 2014-06-10 This pioneering book is the first full length study of the matha or Hindu monastery which developed in India at the turn of the first millennium. Rendered monumentally in stone, the matha represented more than just an architectural innovation; it signaled the institutionalization of asceticism into a formalized monastic practice as well as the emergence of the guru as an influential public figure. With entirely new primary research, Tamara I. Sears examines the architectural and archaeological histories of six little-known monasteries in Central India and reveals the relationships between political power, religion, and the production of sacred space. This important work of scholarship features scrupulous original measured drawings providing a vast amount of new material and a much-needed contribution to the fields of Asian art, religious studies, and cultural history. In introducing new categories of architecture, this book illuminates the potential of buildings to reconfigure not only social and ritual relationships but also the fundamental ontology of the world. Seed to Civilization Charles Bixler Heiser, 1990. Eating is the second favorite activity of many people, and for some it is the first. This lively book recounts the intriguing story of the plants and animals that stand between humans and starvation. In narrating his tale, the author traces the intricate patterns of food use and distribution that have developed since prehistoric times. This book is a must reading for anyone interested in the problem of feeding the world's teeming millions over the next half-century. Plants & Gardens, 1958 The Fertilizer Review, 1939 Consuming History Jerome de Groot, 2016-02-08. Consuming History examines how history works in contemporary popular culture. Analysing a wide range of cultural entities from computer games to daytime television, it investigates the ways in which society consumes history and how a reading of this consumption can help us understand popular culture and issues of representation. In this second edition, Jerome de Groot probes how museums have responded to the heritage debate and how new technologies from online game playing to internet genealogy have brought about a shift in access to history, discussing the often-conflicted relationship between public and academic history and raising important questions about the theory and practice of history as a discipline. Fully revised throughout with up-to-date examples from sources such as Wolf Hall, Game of Thrones, and 12 Years a Slave, this edition also includes new sections on the historical novel, gaming, social media, and genealogy. It considers new ground-breaking texts and media such as YouTube in addition to entities and practices such as re-enactment that have been underrepresented in historical discussion thus far. Engaging with a broad spectrum of source material and comparing the experiences of the UK, the USA, France, and Germany as well as exploring more global trends, Consuming History offers an essential path through the debates for readers interested in history, cultural studies, and the media. Horror Literature and Dark Fantasy Mark A. Fabrizio, 2018-05-16. Horror Literature and Dark Fantasy: Challenging Genres is a collection of scholarly essays intended to address the parent whose unreasoning opposition to horror entails its removal from a school curriculum, the school administrator who sees little or no redeeming literary value in horror, and the teacher who wants to use horror to teach critical literacy skills but does not know how to do so effectively. The essays herein are intended to offer opportunities for teachers in secondary schools and higher education to enrich their classes through a non-canonical approach to literary study.

This book is a deliberate attempt to enlarge the conversation surrounding works of horror and argue for their inclusion into school curricula to teach students critical literacy skills British Children's Literature of the 19th Century Patrick C. Fleming, 2025-02-13 Many beloved classics of children's literature including Alice's Adventures in Wonderland Peter Pan and The Tale of Peter Rabbit were written at the end of the nineteenth century an era known as the Golden Age of children's literature Notable figures like William Godwin Harriet Martineau Christina Rossetti and Charles Dickens contributed to children's literature while juvenile periodicals first appeared to young readers during this time This is the first comprehensive reference work about the Golden Age of children's literature and the emergence of juvenile literature as a major publishing phenomenon Alphabetical entries include foundational figures like Sarah Trimmer Maria Edgeworth and Mary Martha Sherwood who helped establish the market for children's literature New genres for the time like the moral tale religious fiction children's poetry school stories and prolific authors like Hesba Stretton L T Meade and G A Henty are also included
