Legal Education in Asia Andrew J. Harding, Jiaxiang Hu, Maartje de Visser, 2017-11-20 Legal education systems like legal systems themselves were framed across Asia without exception according to foreign models. These reflect the vestiges of colonialism and can be said to amount to imitating the style and purposes of legal education typical in Western and relatively pure common law and civilian systems. Today however we see Asian legal education coming into its own and beginning to accept responsibility for designing curricula and approaches that fit the region's particular needs. This book explores how conventional transplanted approaches as regards program design as well as modes of teaching are or are on the cusp of being reimagined and discerns emerging home grown traces of innovation replacing imitation in countries and universities across East Asia.

Promoting All-Round Education for Girls Patricia P. K. Chiu, 2020-06-02 Promoting All Round Education for Girls presents the history of Heep Yunn School, one of the oldest girls schools in Hong Kong. Amalgamated from two British mission schools founded in the 1880s for destitute girls and daughters of Christian parents and renamed Heep Yunn School in 1936, the institution has witnessed and responded to the dramatic changes of Hong Kong over the years. By the time of the outbreak of the Second World War, Heep Yunn had expanded to offer a full Chinese middle school course for girls based upon Christian principles of all round education. The school expanded rapidly after the war and became a bilingual institution to meet the demand for English language education. Eventually English would become the primary medium of instruction soon after the introduction of nine year universal education in 1978. Heep Yunn strives to provide a full fledged all round education in the midst of political and education reforms. The school opted to switch its status from a government aided school to a direct subsidy scheme school in the early 2010s so as to retain a larger degree of autonomy. This history of Heep Yunn School documents the concerted efforts of the school council, staff, students, alumnae and parents to achieve the evolving visions of Christian education for girls as Hong Kong grew from a colonial trading port to a global financial centre in the twenty first century. Promoting All Round Education for Girls convincingly charts the shifting purposes and practices of girls education in Hong Kong. The text moves seamlessly between the history of the school and the wider context of Hong Kong's history. Patricia P K Chiu illustrates how the school's educational policy evolved according to the wider strategies and shifts that relate models of femininity and nation building. Joyce Goodman, University of Winchester. This solidly referenced work provides a balanced and detailed outlook on the unique evolving features of education in Hong Kong. It shows the effects on Heep Yunn School of major historical changes in education policy and how the school has contributed to the education of girls in Hong Kong in periods of dramatic challenge like the Sino Japanese War and the disturbances of the late 1960s. Ruth Hayhoe, University of Toronto.

Marketing Communications Plan for a Natural Mineral Water from July 2015 to June 2016 Laura Schmiedl, 2020-11-30 Seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject Business economics. Danone 2015b. Cleft Lip and Palate Anomalies/Syndromes Mohammad Khursheed Alam, Mohammed Moniruzzaman, Kathiravan Purmal, 2022-07-12 The Impact of Microorganisms on Consumption of Atmospheric Trace Gases Steffen Kolb, Marcus A. Horn, J. Colin Murrell, Claudia Knief, 2017-11-29 Gases with a mixing ratio of less than one percent in the lower atmosphere, i.e. the troposphere, are considered as trace gases. Numerous of these trace gases originate from biological processes in marine and terrestrial ecosystems. These gases are of relevance for the climate as they contribute to global warming or to the troposphere's chemical reactive system that builds the ozone layer or they impact on the stability of aerosols, greenhouse and pollutant gases. These reactive trace gases include methane, a multitude of volatile organic compounds of biogenic origin (bVOCs) and inorganic gases such as nitrogen oxides or ozone. The regulatory function of microorganisms for trace gas cycling has been intensively studied for the greenhouse gases nitrous oxide and methane but is less well understood for microorganisms that metabolize molecular hydrogen, carbon monoxide or bVOCs. The studies compiled in this Research Topic reflect this very well. While a number of articles focus on nitrous oxide and methane or carbon monoxide oxidation, only a few articles address conversion processes of further bVOCs.

The Research Topic is complemented by three review articles about the consumption of methane and monoterpenes as well as the role of the phyllosphere as a particular habitat for trace gas consuming microorganisms and point out future research directions in the field. The presented scientific work illustrates that the field of microbial regulation of trace gas fluxes is still in its infancy when one broadens the view on gases beyond methane and nitrous oxide. However, there is a societal need to better predict global dynamics of trace gases that impact on the functionality and warming of the troposphere. Upcoming modelling approaches will need further information on process rates, features and distribution of the driving microorganisms to fulfill this demanding task.
