International Monetary Fund, International Monetary Fund. Asia and Pacific Dept, 2023-02-03 Following an impressive recovery from the initial impact of the pandemic China's growth has slowed significantly in 2022. It remains under pressure as more transmissible variants have led to recurring outbreaks that have dampened mobility, the real estate crisis remains unresolved and global demand has slowed. Macroeconomic policies have been eased appropriately but their effectiveness has been diminished by a focus on enterprises and increasingly less effective traditional infrastructure investment rather than support to households. The pandemic and its impacts have also been a setback to economic rebalancing toward private consumption and to reducing greenhouse gas emissions. A slowdown in growth-enhancing reforms against the backdrop of increasing geoeconomic fragmentation pressures stand in the way of a much needed lift to productivity growth weighing on China's medium term growth potential.
