Patrimonialization on the Ruins of Empire Maximilian Hartmuth, Ayse Dilsiz Hartmuth, 2024-08-02 After the failed Siege of Vienna of 1683 the Ottoman Empire gradually withdrew from Europe Even so monumental reminders of its former presence survived across the continent The contributors to this volume show that the various successor states adopted substantially different approaches towards their Ottoman architectural inheritance Even within the same countries different policies appear to have been pursued in different periods in keeping with differing circumstances Case studies inquire from diverse vantage points how this heritage has been coped with discursively and materially. Importantly, readers will find that it is almost impossible to disentangle these two levels of action.

A Web of Fantasies Patricia B. Salzman-Mitchell, 2005. Drawing on recent scholarship in art, film, literary theory, and gender studies, A Web of Fantasies examines the complexities of symbolism and interactions between gaze and image in Ovid's Metamorphoses and forms a gender-sensitive perspective. It is a feminist study of Ovid's epic which includes many stories about change in which discussions of viewers viewing and imagery strive to illuminate Ovid's constructions of male and female. Patricia Salzman-Mitchell discusses the text from the perspective of three types of gazes of characters: looking of the poet who narrates visually charged stories and of the reader who sees the woven images in the text. Arguing against certain theorists who deny the possibility of any feminine vision in a male-authored poem, the author maintains that the female point of view can be released through the traditional feminine occupation of weaving, featuring the woven images of Arachne involved in a weaving contest in which she tried to best the goddess Athena who turned her into a spider and Philomela who had her tongue cut out so had to weave a tapestry depicting her rape and mutilation. The book observes that while feminist models of the gaze can create productive readings of the poem, these models are too limited and reductive for such a protean and complex text as Metamorphoses. This work brings forth the pervasive importance of the act of looking in the poem which will affect future readings of Ovid's epic.
